The USS MIRADA goes out for the '81-'82 cruise. In a city located on the Pacific Ocean, with a harbor and people of all ages involved in sports of the water, it's a natural topic to build into a theme for another year's cruise of the self contained vessel, the modern comprehensive high school. Thus, the USS MIRADA's '81-'82 cruise passed through many ports of wonders, adventures, times of personal growth and crisis, with exciting days and events for all. BON VOYAGE!

Welcome Aboard

In the early hours of the morning, Sept. 14, 1981, 2,818 alarms awakened the mates of Mira Mesa High. With mixed emotions of enthusiasm and dismay, the first day of the year long cruise had begun and the fresh log book was opened.

Welcome aboard to a voyage full of excitement and excursions that won't be forgotten. First on the itinerary were greetings by the cheerleaders, songleaders, and the A.S.B. as schedules were issued. Checking into cabins and finding classes followed. A special orientation during first period for the frosh helped these newcomers develop sea legs for their maiden voyage.

The students had boarded, and the 81-82 cruise was under way. Itinerary changes in the counseling cabin and finding the way around the different decks and gangways were common frustrations. Greeting familiar faces, seeing old friends and making new ones added to the adventure of the cruise. The weather was clear and the cruise promised to be a fine one!

1. Georgia Bowles and Ms. Olga Gonzales are instant hits with the MIRADA cameraman.
2. The first rose sale went well, but some buyers were skeptical.
3. "Have you spent too much money?";, Kelly Tyner.
4. Steve Maddex, Mishelle Baker, Jeff Owen and Coach Griffith seem to be getting along just fine.
5. Is Laura Sandman in the brig? No, she's in the lunch court and the photographer is behind bars.
6. Tim Curran has been locked up in the ship's lazarette a little too long.
7. Here are some of the mateys of this fair school, in one of their sea-going moods.
8. Excuse me, James, can you give us a song on your accordian? Or even a song on your guitar would be all right.
9. Lou Black would be one fine lady to have along as a matey.

Sea Rations

All ABOARD! First come, first served. For those who liked to stay aboard ship, the galley had many delicious treats and sweets. There were many provisions to choose from: cakes, chocolate milk, tacos, hamburgers, and pizza. Marauder seamates did not wait in line for long because of the nutritious items offered in other lines such as fruits, salads, and yogurt.

The Galley hours were flexible, beginning with breakfast at 6:30 and serving through both lunches and again in the afterschool snacks. In the morning, Marauder seamates enjoyed a variety of hot chocolate, cereal and coffee cake for breakfast. After school maties satisfied their tastebuds with a quick snack. The Galley is a cornucopia of gastronomical delights which depended on the skills of the Galley crew.

1. There is always a seating problem at lunch.
2. Today's rations consist of bananas.
3. Melissa West buys a few rations, while they are still available.
4. Eating lunch on the grass seems to break the monotony of the school day.

Rough Waters Ahead

It was a foggy day like many a day of those on any voyage on the sea and as in life. The morning's fog is surely followed by bright noonday sun only hours away; the calm harbor of evening and sure to come.

During the first weeks of school the Counseling Wardroom was packed with students ready to find out about the S.A.T. test and graduation. In spite of all the confusion and mischief, the counselors made another year go by more or less successfully, helping student through a terrific year.

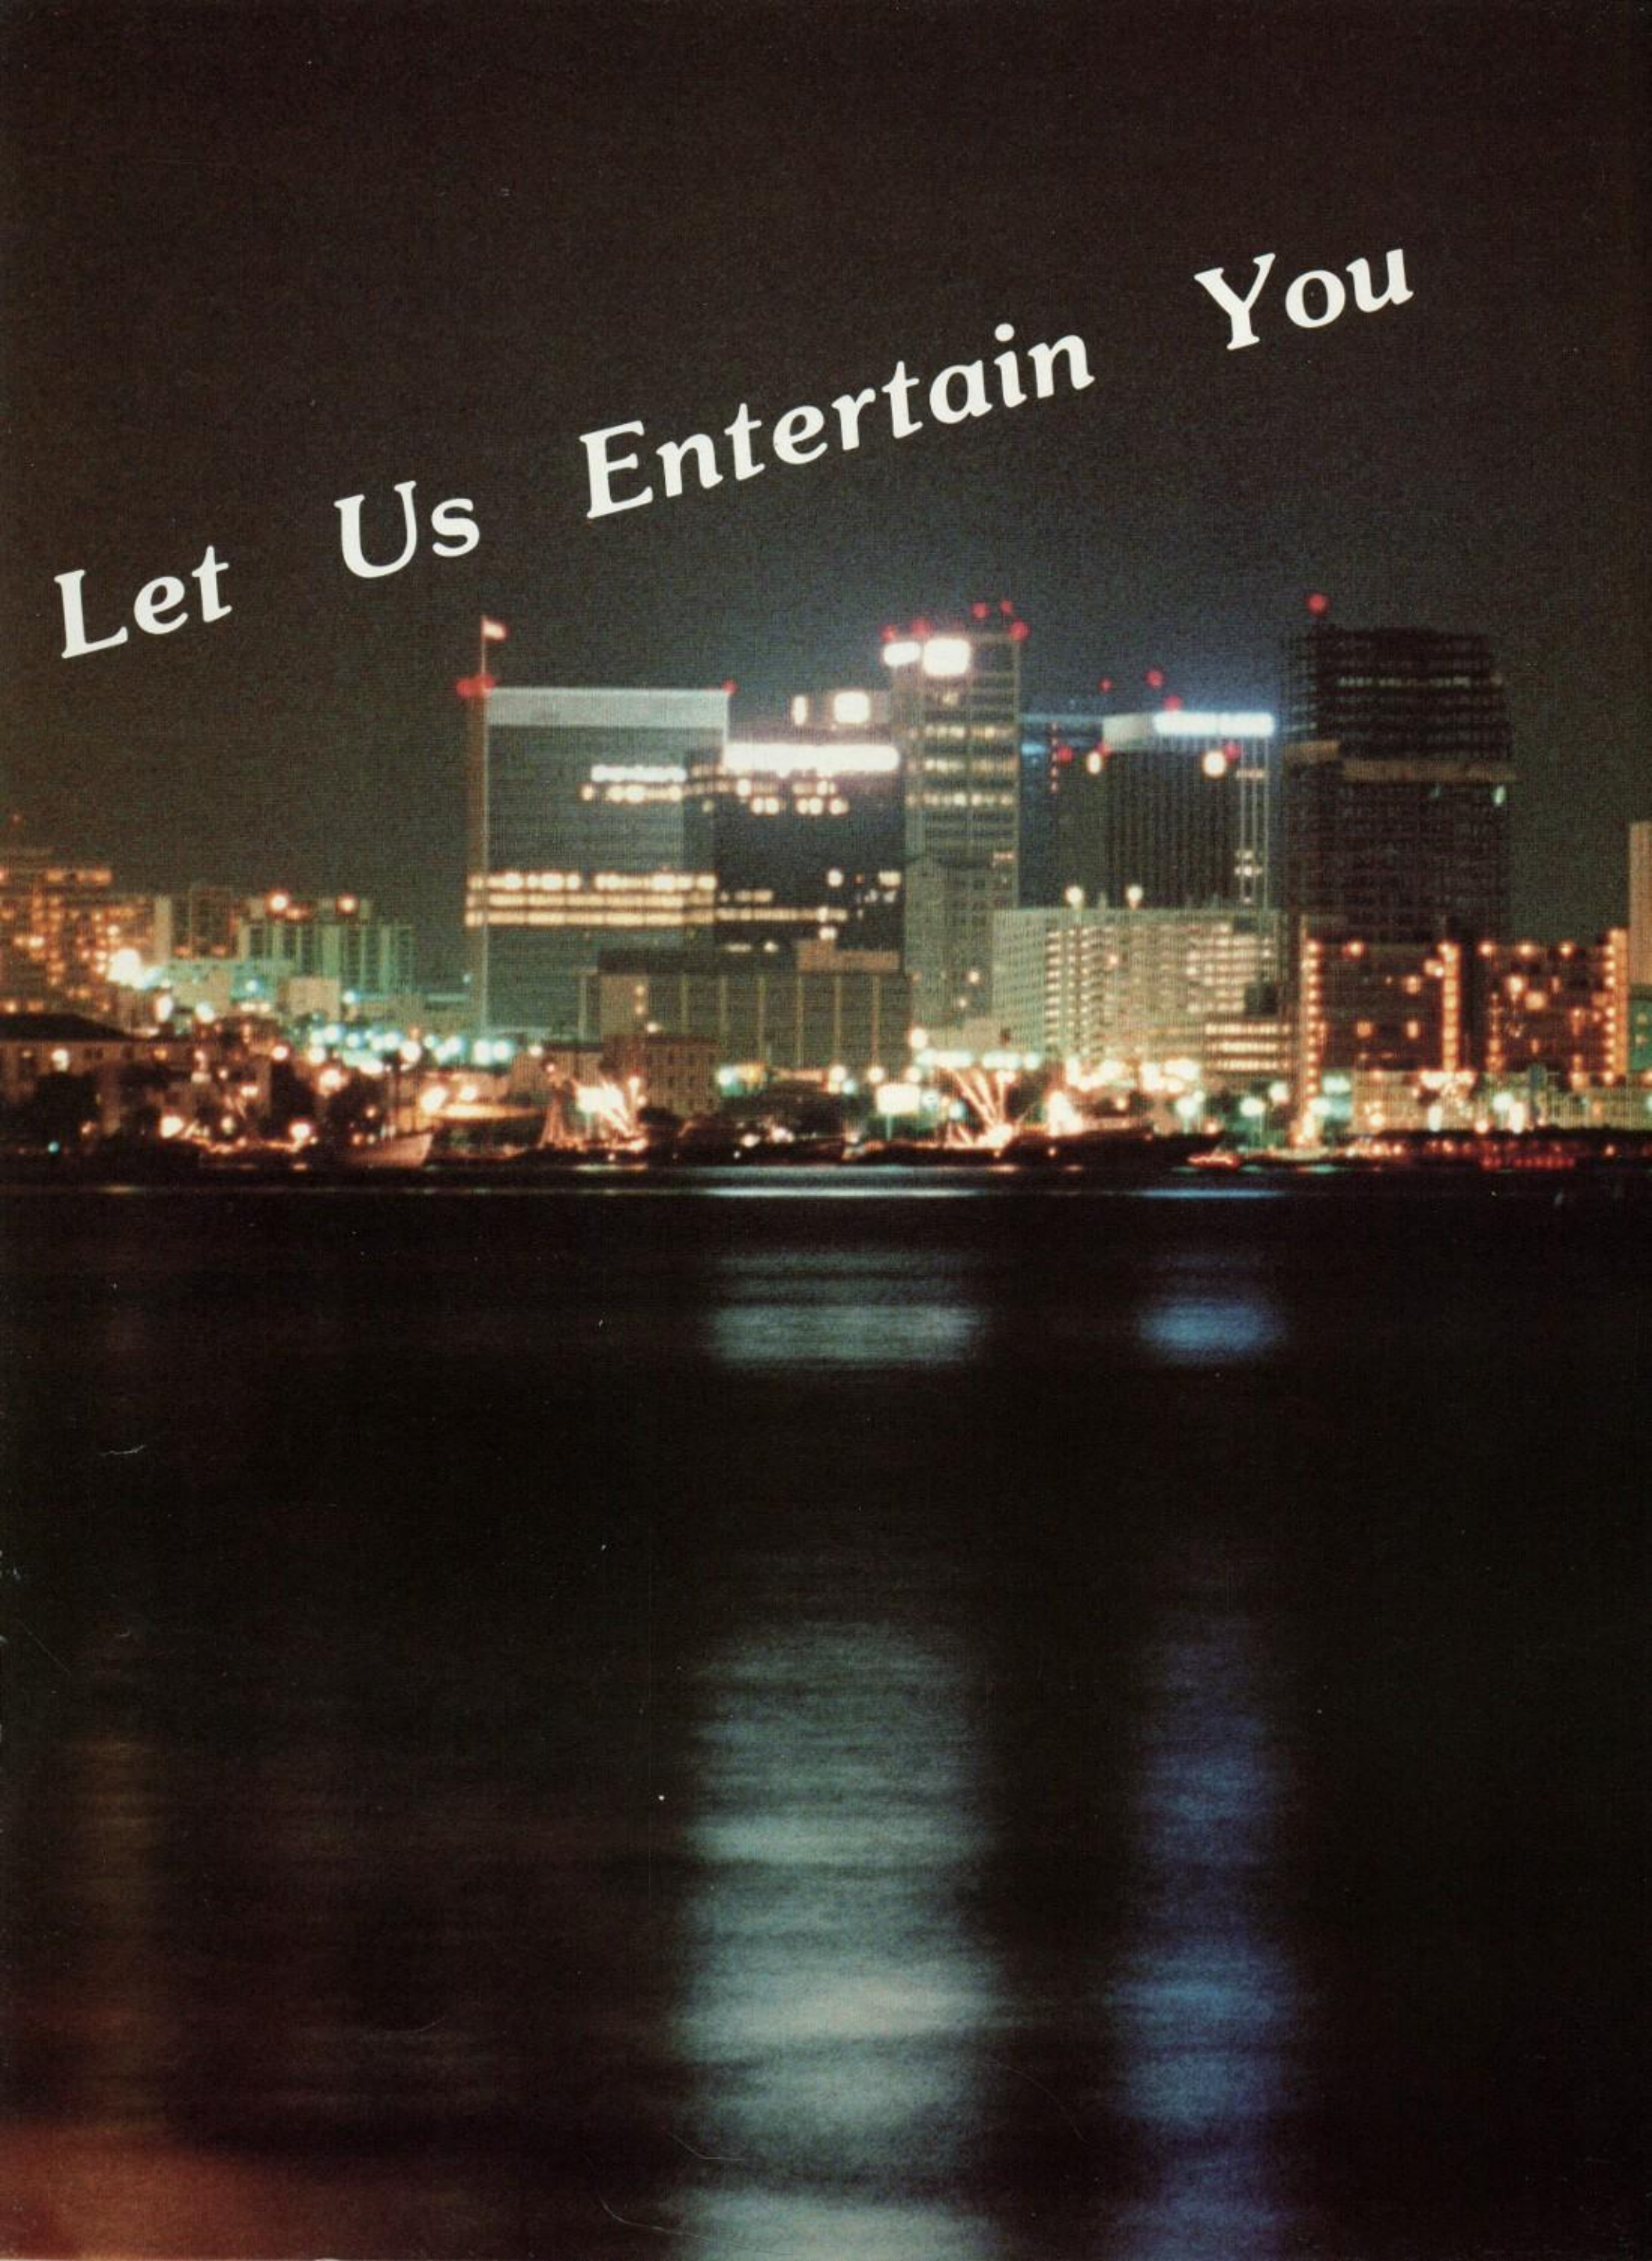

1. Mr. Bailiff walks to his next class, after eating lunch.
2. David Allen looks over his schedule, before going to his new class.
3. Robert Smith exchanges greetings with Mr. Funches before heading to the Counseling Office.
4. The first week of school holds many problems, which are cleared up before the week is over.

12 Drill Team

Fluttering blue and gold waves upon white flags signaled to all that the MARAUDERETTES were present. Kicking high and snapping 'round, they strutted to the drumbeat of the band. The Captain called the cadence while the Lieutenants led their units. Flags twirled as skirts swirled and shiny white boots pranced.

The games were more than just fun. The MARAUDERETTES also performed at Homecoming festivities and in local parades as well as entering competitions against other high school drill teams. Twelve long hours were the price of perfection.

Numerous fundraisers financed trips to compete. Members rocked around the clock in a "rockathon"; sold a year's supply of calories in each box of candy; washed cars and sold roses for dates; as well as presenting a potpourri of routines in concert with the band. This year's bright new uniforms were purchased with funds raised from last year's events.

The team on the field became buddies off the field. Every performance ended with a trip for pizza and...(don't tell Mom)...root beer.

Serviceable Voyage

It was full speed ahead for the K.E.Y. Star Line which had been founded to engage in school-community service trade. To that purpose they bought in the name and flag of one of the most famous of the Mira Mesa-Scripps Kiwanis companies.

K.E.Y. meaning Kiwanis Educates Youth is cosponsored by the Mira Mesa-Scripps Kiwanis Crew and supervised by Mr. Walter Siewerth, Kiwanian; and Mr. Otis Funches, vice principal. Objectives of KEY groups on board included the development of initiative and leadership, providing experience in living and working together, and serving the school and community. The KEY crew's International theme, which headed windward, was to Pursue Tomorrow's Potential, working and supporting handicapped and lonely children. The International theme was not the club's forstay; KEY clubbers were also busy finding ways to support Senior citizens for the District theme, Wisdom and Youth.

For school projects, the Crew went abeam by publicizing home games, aiding the faculty in projects, and helping the career center with vocational days. For community projects, the KEY crew amidship volunteered services for Muscular Dystrophy at Escondido Mall, worked in the cotton candy and coke booth at the Good Shepherd Oktoberfest, and raised funds for Unicef. Fundraisers such as car washes and working in concessions were fared well, and were equally moored as was the Crew's manpower and entertainment.

1. KEY Club, Support of Churches at the Good Shepherd Oktoberfest proved to be a success while Mori Lemau worked concessions.

2. Rose Tajalle spun cotton candy after scooping ice in the coke booth at the Oktoberfest.

3. Vince Sermona stands before the KEY Banner after hanging it up at the Kick-Off Dance, Oct. 2, considering KEY Club helped sponsor the dance.

4. Michelle Braff, Evelyn Padua, and Alex Stojadinovic organized the coat and shoe check at the Oct. 2 dance for the first hour before the A.S.B. and Seniors took over.

5. The KEY Clubbers are, front row: L. Harris, S. Simmons, M. Ebalo, S. Rivera, E. Bergeron, M. Lemau, P. Rostrata, B. Castenada, and E. Padua, President. Second Row: N. Navida, M. Hulett, M. Casting New Information

"The MARQUEE is one of the best newspapers in San Diego County," said Doug Fugate, a proud staff writer. Through the year's cruise the eighteen journalists spent many hours before and after school to meet deadlines. They became close friends during deadlines by aiding each other on calls of duty. Full speed ahead, sticking to jobs and not drifting off were the only ways to stay afloat during deadlines.

Writing stories and editorials came after interviewing people to get as many quotes as possible. Admiral Suzanne Emery was there to ensure that the MARQUEE sailed smoothly through sixteen treacherous deadlines.

1. The presses of Pomerado Publishing in Poway are regularly used to print the sixteen issues of the MARQUEE and reporters on a recent visit are front Dave Durkovich, Bonnie Armstrong, Eddy Bravo, Jon Sakurauchi, Mike Cooper and Doug Fugate with Jeff Weeks behind. On the other side of the work table are top row Admiral Suzanne Emery and Debbie Nowakowski with the front row of Janeen Hentz, Doris Celendro, Hiep Nguyen, Damian Lopez, Bonnie Bennett, Arleen Basurto and Robert Tacloban. Adele Sayarot and a salesman Jeff Yeager.

2. Adele Sayarot, Debbie Nowakowski, Jeneen Hentz, and Jon Sakurauchi look over some copy before turning it into the plant.

Cruise Directors Navigate

"This year's A.S.B. is one of the most thinking group of individual characters that I ever worked with," affirmed Admiral Judy Earle. Each time a subject was brought about, the fourteen cruise directors set their minds full speed ahead. The five high ranking officers, who led the A.S.B. were Captain-Steve Greene, Commander-Mina Ocampo, Steward-Saundra Valenzuela, and Historian-Adriana Martinez. These officers attended dances and activities and assisted in setting them up.

Directing and benefitting activities to keep the school spirit afloat was what the A.S.B. did best. They held dances, conducted noontime activities, campus clean-up, parades, hosted homecoming dance, pep rallies, and assemblies for passengers who had excellent grades and great citizenship. Captain Steve Greene also aired the bulletin for the entire ship twice a week over the P.A. system.

Cruising To The Music

Cruise directors of this year's kick-off dance opening the year, were the A.S.B., the Key Club, and the Senior Class, which were in charge of ticket sales. These active sailors also ran the concession stand in the lobby of the promenade deck, while Marauders sailed through the evening with music by D.J. K-Hollywood, who played a variety of popular hits.

The highlight of the evening was a drawing for a pair of Rolling Stones concert tickets, won by Lori Ramos.

The dance was profitable and an enjoyable evening cruise for everyone involved due to the large turnout.

1. Marauders take a break from the fast pace of the dance.

2. Passengers pose for a quick picture on deck before proceeding to the starlight room.

3. Seaworthy voyagers entertain themselves.

4. Julie Malo and Andy Brockmire punk with perfection.

5. Rich Brady and Susie Doane sail with the music.

Ring Around The Moon

T'was a grave story that unfolded on the stage of Mira Mesa High School. "Dracula" was presented by the Sword and Scroll Honorary Drama Society with only three weeks rehearsal.

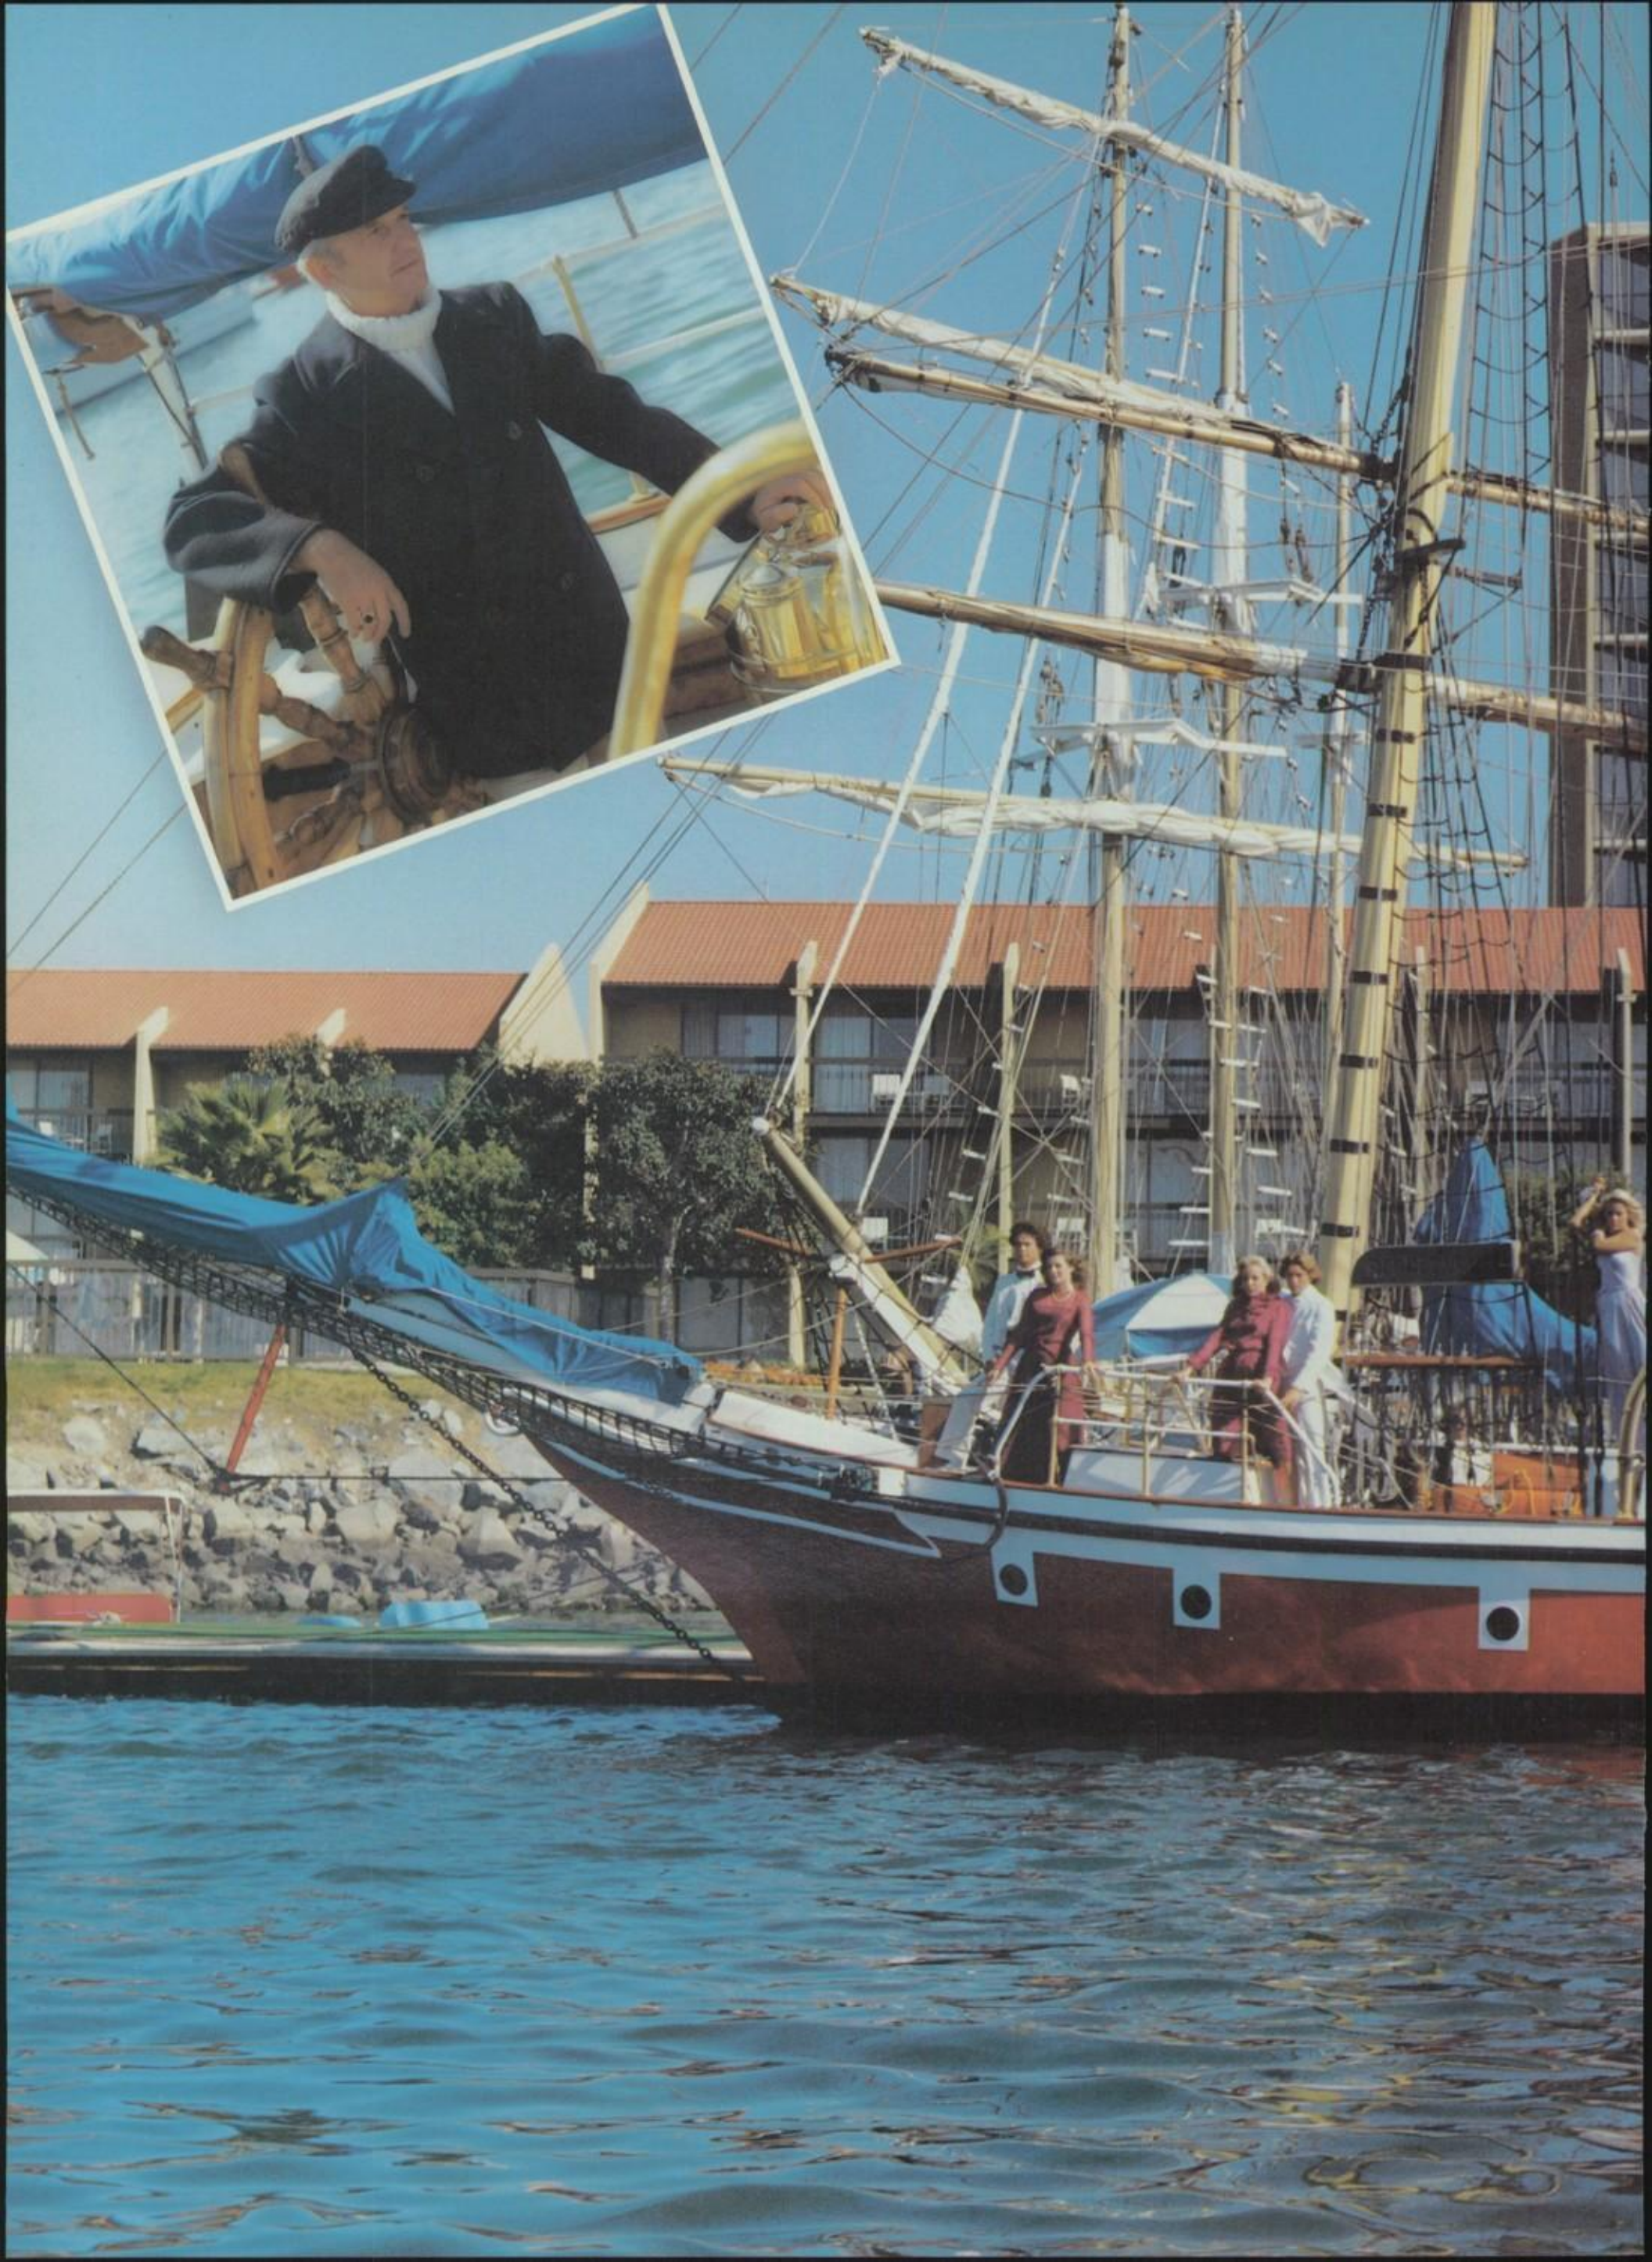

That mythical monster, Count Dracula (in his batman outfit), was flying night patterns over Mira Mesa. It was love at first bite according to the many ladies in the Count's night life and with a raise of an eyebrow after each bite, you could see Dracula's great delight.

Since the Count is several hundred years old he suffers from tired blood.

The Count, alas! is doomed to bachelorhood because coffins are not yet made in double sizes- at least not on the S.S. Marauder. I would stake my life on that but that would be fatal.

1. The maid cautiously walks around in the dungeon.
2. Tension mounts as Jonathan attempts to kill Dracula.
3. Blood from a shaving cut, drives Dracula into a frenzy.

A Spirited Voyage

Of Cruise Activities

Sailing through Homecoming Week it seemed as if the sailors of Mira Mesa High had more spirit than ever. On the first day of this year's cruise through "insanity week" there was an A.S.B. card drawing for gifts at lunch, followed by tugs of war, servant sale, chariot races, alien dress-up day, and, for a grand finale, a 6th period pep rally, featuring alumni cheerleaders and songleaders, and many alumni seated in the stands. After school there was the annual parade down Mira Mesa Boulevard, which wound up at the football field. The Girls swimming team won first place for their float, which displayed originality. The cruise ended with the Homecoming Game and later that evening, with the Homecoming Dance.

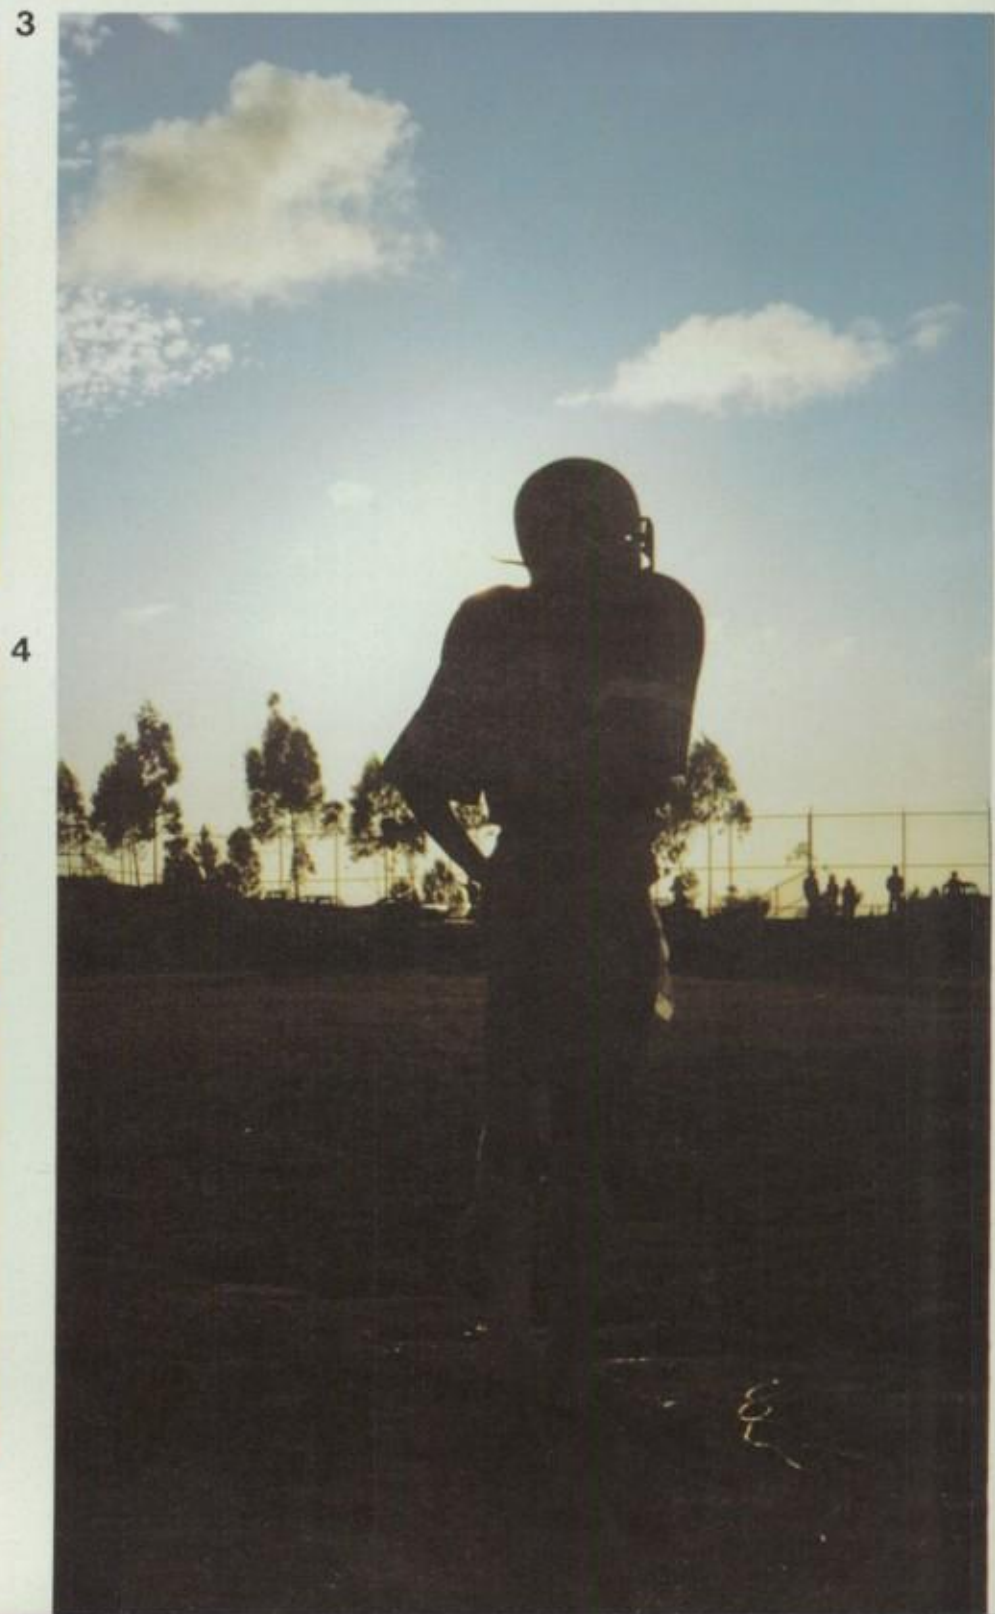

1. The Class of '84's representatives parade down the street on Homecoming Day.
2. The Class of '82 proudly marches down Mira Mesa Boulevard.
3. In the class spirit competition, Judy Earle, Admiral, points out that the Juniors are winning.
4. The slave sale was a huge success. The price ranged from fifty cents to eight dollars.
5. Robert Tacloban holds on to his chariot hoping for a victory.
6. The Seniors anxiously await the start of the tug-o-war finals.

The fifth annual Homecoming game has sailed its course and has strengthened the traditions of Mira Mesa High. The crowd filled the air with roars of encouragement as the team struggled for a victory. The twenty-two alumni cheer and song leaders enthusiastically lead the spirited Marauder mates to cheer on the hard working players who turned in a close score.

Homecoming is a time for graduates to return to port and reflect on traveled seas. It is a time to renew old friendships and to anchor new ones. The nostalgia is strong. A new queen is crowned, floats are exhibited, and new faces all bring home the fact that the details changed yet the spirit of Mira Mesa has remained unchanged. The pride of being a Marauder is symbolized in enthusiasm and dedication to the mother ship - Mira Mesa High.

"Junior Varsity Cheer is number one!" declared Jovie Sabal. This motto was the goal that kept Junior Varsity Cheerleading afloat. The eight seamates did their best to maintain a happy aggressive crowd with jumps, kicks, cheers, chants, and somersaults.

"Nobody does it better than Junior Varsity Cheer," explained Captain Cheryll Robinson who also aided Admiral Anne Oberhaus in patching the leaks in the cheerleadings performance by maintaining practice five days a week.

Cheering was not the only matter the Junior Varsity Cheerleaders accomplished. They sold ribbons and pins for school spirit and participated in a contest against Serra called "A Mile of Pennies."

Anchoring In On Spirit

Who are the Cheerleaders that aren't songleaders, J. V. or Varsity cheerleaders or even Drill Team? They've performed at pep rallies and were the main performance at Homecoming. But why didn't they ever perform during a football game? That's because the group they're the Chargettes, made up of members of the Marauder football team.

What are Chargettes? "Chargettes are guys having a good time showing spirit. A chance to be crazy," said George Delgado.

Over the summer each Cheerleader adopted one Chargette and taught him the ropes of being a cheerleader. They also made the skirts, which when combined with the Chargette's jerseys made the proper performance attire.

Head Chargette, Mathis Huff, and Co-Head Scott Neumann, lead cheers which described Chargettes in a crazy, but true way: having fun and providing entertainment for the student body.

1. The Chargettes consist of, Top Row: Mike Rios, Andy Brockmire, Robert Liauw, Mathis Huff, Joe Damato, Mike Vigil, Front Row: George Delgado, Mike Stewart, Scott Neumann, and Chris Wreiden.
2. The Chargettes get together before doing some of their cheers.
3. Scott Neumann does his thing.
4. Mike Stewart and Mathis Huff, show that they have the true MARAUDER spirit.
5. Chris Wreiden and Andy Brockmire cheer to get their fans motivated.

Setting Out For Sea

The Senior Class of 81-82 had the very best times, while helping the school's 636 seniors through rough waters. They participated in many activities, such as the traditional toilet papering of the campus the first day of school. They also co-sponsored the first dance of the year, which was a spectacular event. The crew officers worked hard over the year to improve the school and provide recreation and memorable events for the graduation crew. Seven elected officers and nine appointed members including Admiral Donna DeYoung organized cruise events.

... And A Bottle of Pep

Raise the flags. Strike up the band. Shake the pom pons and clap your hands. Come on Big Blue Let's Go!!!

Come together right now with cheerleaders that sparkle, athletes that hustle, coaches with moxie and fans with pizzazz.

Feel the pulsing rhythm of the music. See the precision of the drill team. Respond to the enthusiasm of the cheerleaders and rally 'round the team with breathless impatience urging the Mira Mesa Marauders on to victory.

Approaching the sights began new experiences. Every Friday, were hour lunches, to evoke spirit, enthusiasm, and boundless energy.

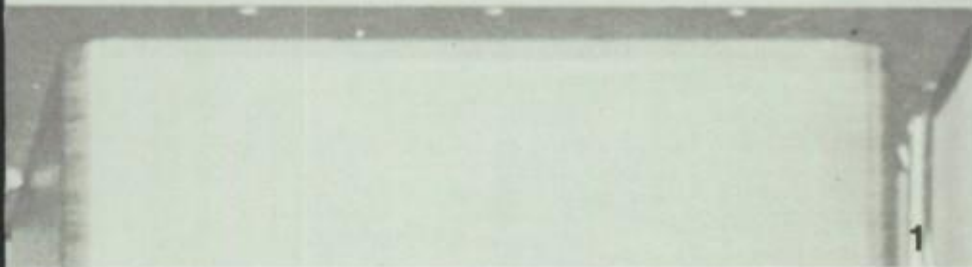

1. Tia Francis and Kim Robinson claim that MARAUDERS are number 1!

2. Tim Crone accepts a welcoming cake from the Pep Club, as the J.V. Football team was introduced.

3. The MARAUDER cheerleaders and songleaders conclude the pep rally with the Alma Mater.

A Past Voyage

On Jan. 14, 1982, an assembly in commemoration of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has become an annual event. This year's proved to be most successful as the many teachers, students, and parents hove into port for an hour-long presentation by dedicated students.

"I have a dream", Dr. Martin Luther King said, and that dream was discussed and shared with every Marauder present. A brief biography of Dr. King's life along with a slide show, stirred the minds of many, while poems and songs with related themes were read and sung.

1. James Pope begins the assembly with introductory remarks hailing Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

2. Cindi Ward assists in playing the song, "Destiny", written by Kevin Fluornoy, honoring the late Dr. King.

3. Susan Doane assists in the playing of "Destiny".

4. Cindy Vales enhances the audience with Kevin Fluornoy's composition.

A New Port

The Year of the Dog was welcomed on January 22 by Vietnamese and Chinese students at Mira Mesa High School. The traditional lion dance was performed by students to the accompaniment of a large ceremonial drum during a special lunch hour program. Under the direction of teacher Phuong Do, students brought typical Vietnamese dishes to share with the faculty in celebration of the Lunar New Year 4680. The lion head and drum were made available to the school through the courtesy of Mr. Albert Wong from the Chinese Social Service Center.

1. How hard should we hit it? We don't want to break it!
2. Mr. Fansler greets the dragon before his dance.
3. Just another day of dragon slaying.

Whooping It Up!

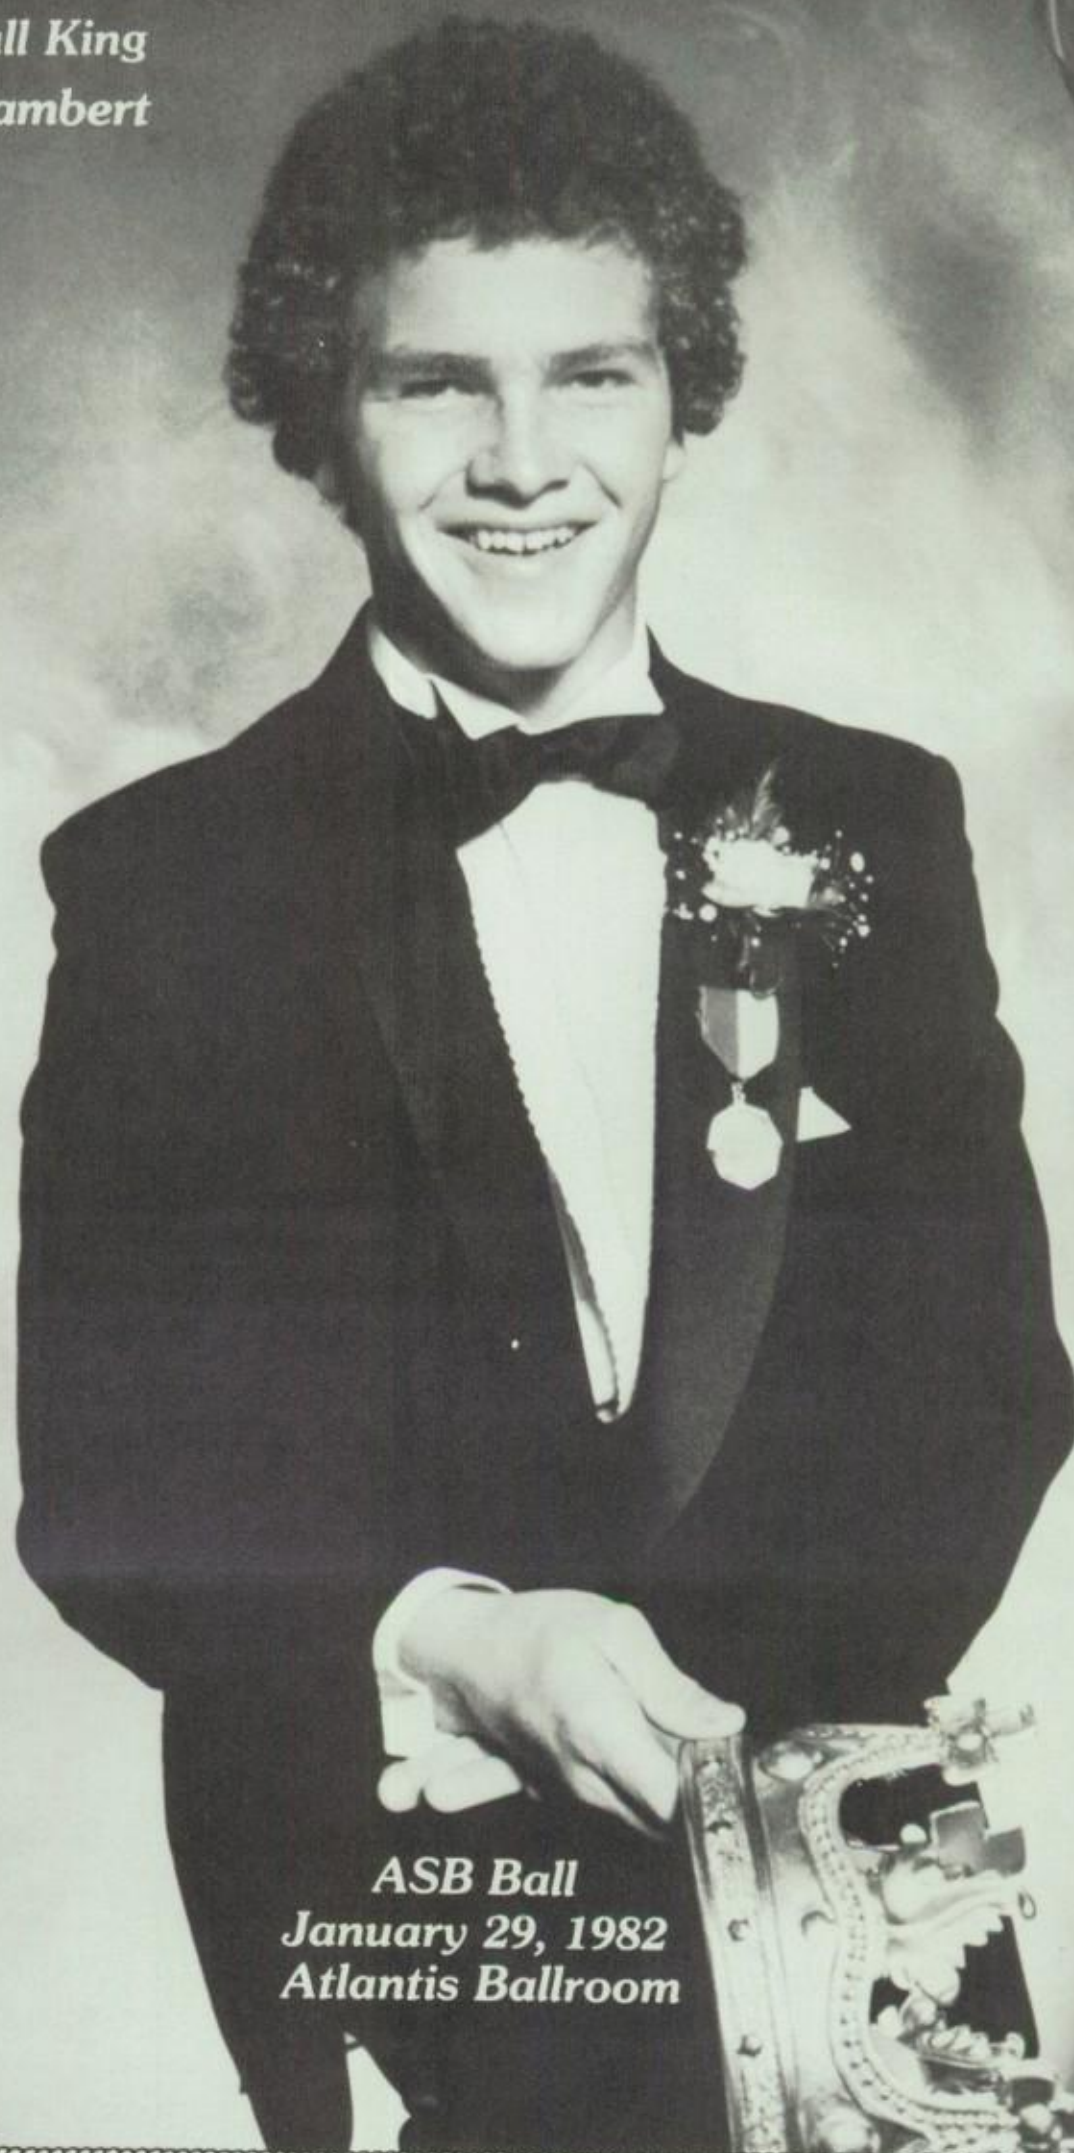

The gals finally had their chance to snag that special guy at the annual Sadie Hawkins dance March 12th. And after a tad of sasparilla many girls drug their hoedown garbed sailors over to Mr. Dennis Morgan for an informal marriage ceremony. The sheriffs had their guns loaded ready to corral those pesky pirates who might intervene in the "marryin", or try to escape at the last minute preferring the life of a rogue.

1. Sharon Cole finally gets her guy to visit Marryin' Sam.
2. Robert Schneider contemplates whether he really wants to dance.
3. Robert Tacloban shows his best hoedown form on the sawdust covered floor.

Student Ethics

As long as school has been in existence, so has cheating. Why do people cheat? Part of it has to do with pressures: pressures on students for college entrance, pressures by parents to complete high school, and pressures by friends to help them get needed answers. Why else do people cheat? Maybe they don't have the necessary self-confidence in their answers. Marauders also say cheating was an added challenge to "liven up" the test.

Asked about their views on cheating, students said they felt that it was wrong to cheat, but if they needed answers what else could they do.

What do teachers do about the problem? Some teachers separate students; some teachers give out different tests; and some teachers watch with eagle eyes, ready to catch the first person cheating.

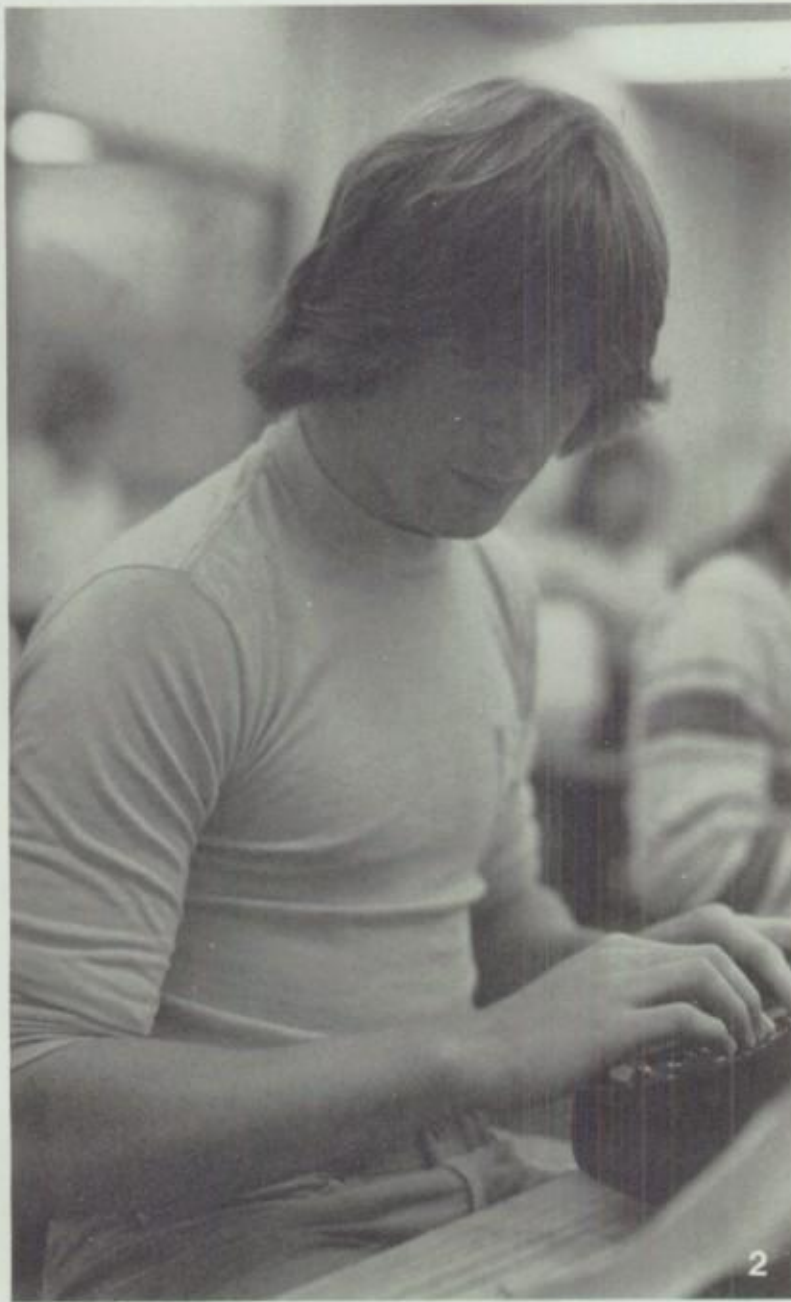

What is gained by cheating? Nothing. The cheaters haven't learned anything by using someone else's answers. When they need to recall something they were supposed to have learned they'll be lost. They'll regret ever looking on someone else's paper.

Then again there are those who study, those who are often times taken advantage of, and those that do well on their tests. Many Marauders hit the library to pass time studying, take notes for a research paper, or to obtain help on difficult problems. Studying may not always be fun, but what's gained is knowledge, education and a future.

And that's where students develop confidence in themselves and in their own answers. Studying is a self accomplished action worth your time and grades; it is also a step up from cheating.

Course For The Future

During this year-long cruise, for the business oriented and career wise shipmates, the USS Mirada provided basic training necessary to give each individual the knowledge and experience to help achieve their goals. Training began each semester and lasted for several fortnights. Courses included typing, shorthand, marketing, accounting, and many others. Most shipmates enrolled to become familiar with the machines and also gain skills they'll use in distant docks and ports as secretaries, managers, computer engineers... the list is endless.

1. As the teacher dictates, Becky Fitzsimmons practices her skills in shorthand.
2. John McClain works up to 40 words a minute.
3. Oh no! Remember, "Don't look at the keys!"
4. Kevin Lacey listens attentively to the teacher's instructions.

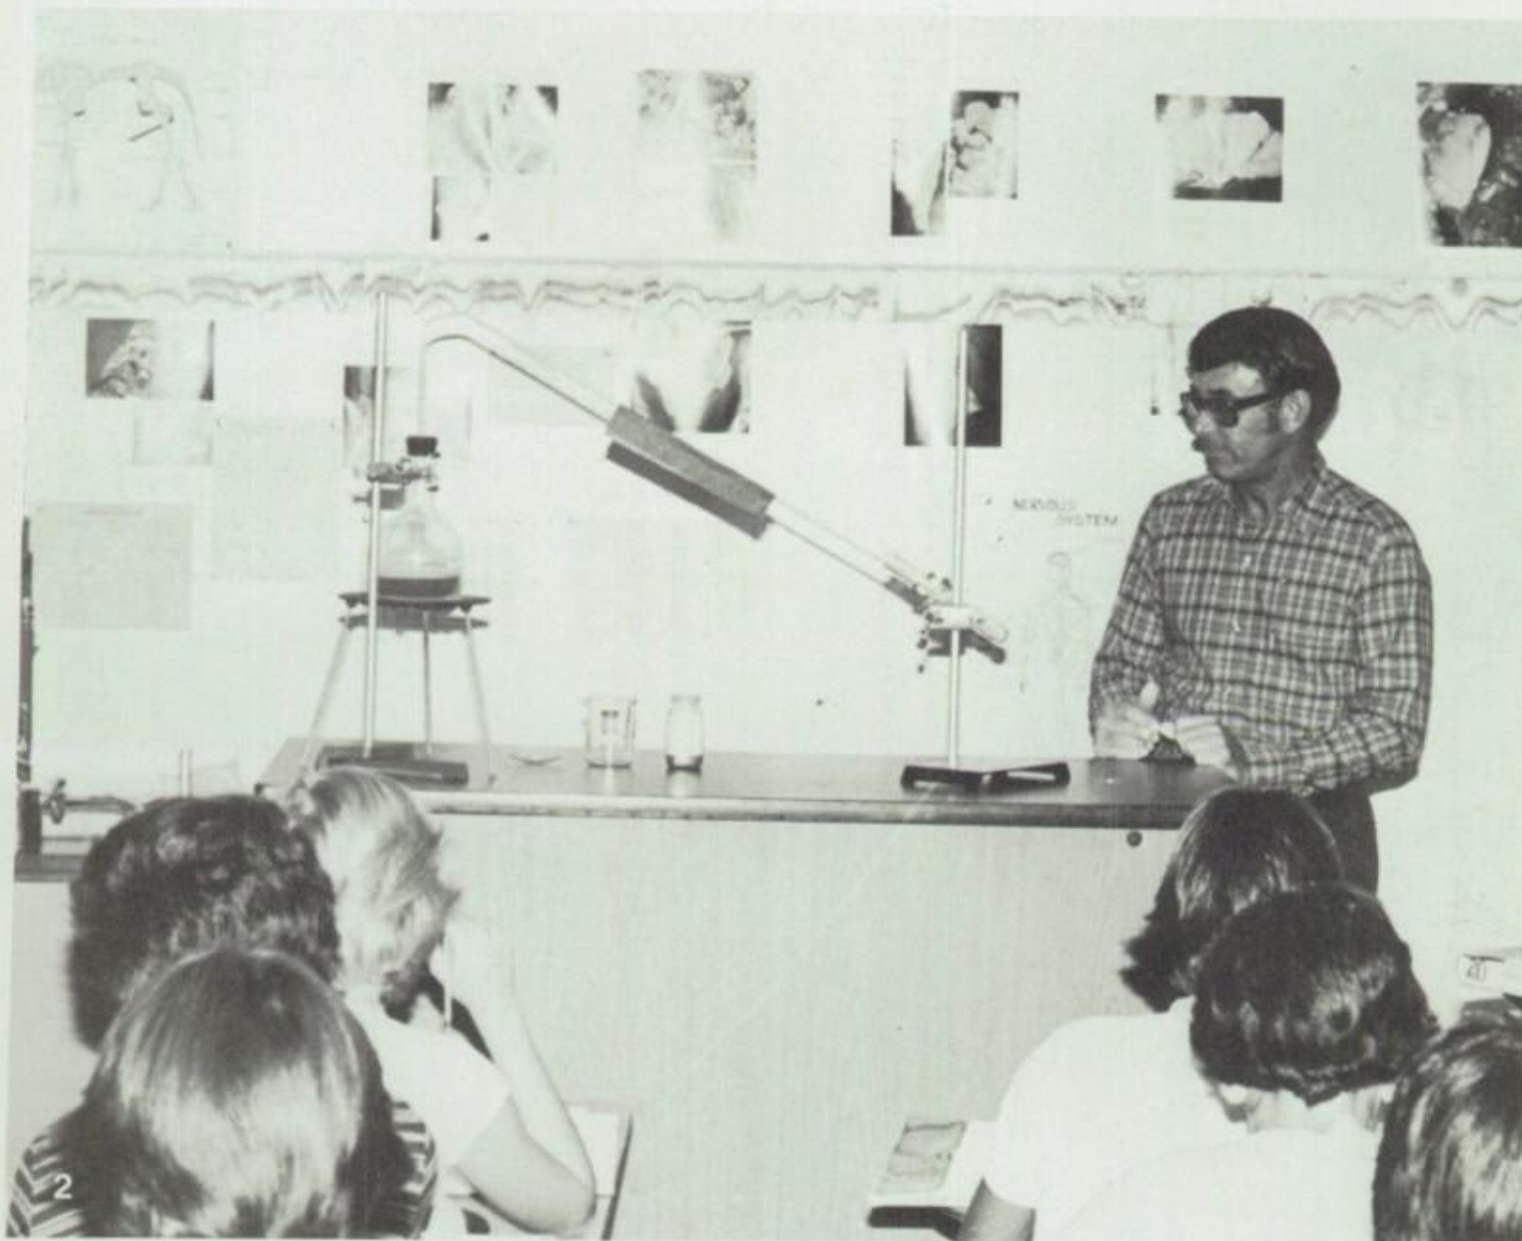

On The Sea To The Future

Compounds, angles, elements, and proofs are just a few of the terms used in the math and science departments. As crew members worried and wondered over these and other problems, they found that if they concentrated, these classes weren't as terrifying as walking the plank off a pirate ship.

These two departments were as interesting ever. For math students, computers played an evergrowing part in shipboard activities. Students had many choices in the type of math to take including algebra, geometry, trigonometry and calculus.

The science department also had a variety of courses to choose from including general science, biology, physics, chemistry, physiology and biological behavioral science.

Students soon discovered the close relationship between these two courses. Marauders used math to solve scientific equations and many of the advanced science classes had math courses as pre-requisites.

1. Brian Murphy is working hard, trying to get through another day in Geo-Land.
2. Mr. Goodhue explains another interesting experiment.
3. Future scientist eyes live specimen.
4. Crew members observe sea life under a microscope.
5. Lia Hurt charts her calculations on the board.
6. Anita Gomes and Julie Anne Clifford plot their research course.

*Dorraine,
 It's been great having you for a friend. Hope to see you again next year. Have a great summer. Good luck.

Overseas Cultures, Spice It Up

On international cruises, there are important customs- food and languages. The cruise through another year at Mira Mesa High was no exception.

Crews were taught to make a variety of different foods from an assortment of different cultures. Translating recipes was part of the fun in learning those different dishes. Apprentice chefs were also taught about the customs that went along with these foods. The horizons broadened as their knowledge increased.

The foreign language department helped with the communication process needed when sailing away to distant countries. Much time was spent practicing those different accents. After much effort, the Maurauder crew members became gormands and linguists on an exciting international cruise.

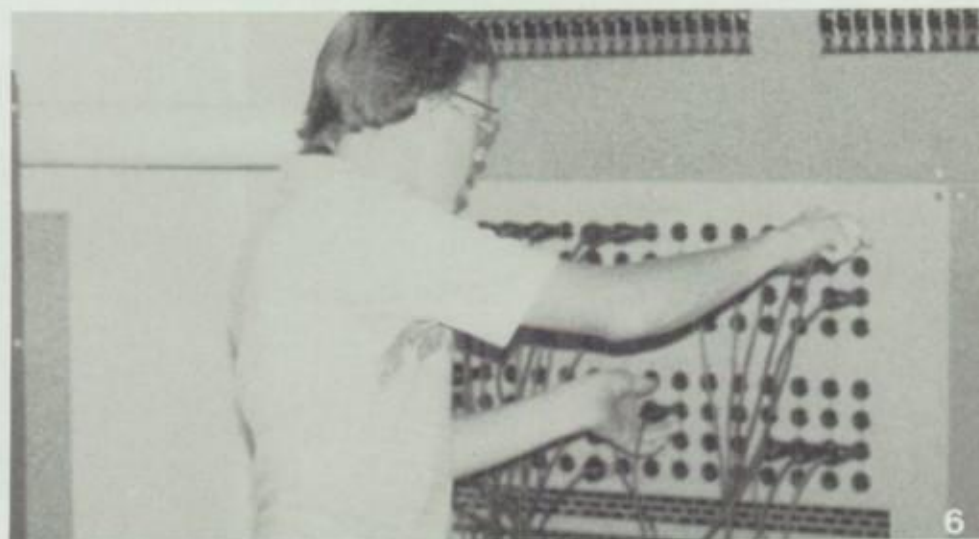

Life In The Limelight

When sitting on the promenade deck of the U.S.S. Mirada watching a play, had you ever wondered about the origin of the realistic props? The crew which constructed these sets belonged to the unit identified as stagecraft, skippered by Mr. Robert Wise. This energetic and rowdy crew spent a year hammering nails, painting flats, changing sets and rushing backstage. The shows were a success and each member of the stagecrew gained new insight to the realities of life in the limelight.

Another unit similar to stagecraft is television productions navigated by Admiral Bill Male. Passengers on this cruise traveled through T.V. land and discovered the broadcasting world. Commercials and programming were also included in this tour. A more advanced squadron of T.V. Productions ran the television show that was shown in various classrooms. These crew members also interviewed key line officers and the crew of the U.S.S. MIRADA throughout its year long cruise.

1. Mrs. Jensen demonstrates how to make crepes.
2. Phil Kennedy practices French.
3. Crew members make sure things are going smooth in the control room.
4. Stage crew member makes final adjustments.
5. David Acampora zooms in for a closeup.
6. Kevin Paules adjusts the lights.

Sink Or Swim ?

Remember reading, writing, and arithmetic? How could anyone forget. Many English bound cruise members found themselves in a sink or swim situation as due dates for term papers fast approached. In this mainstream students were encouraged to increase their vocabulary, study famous authors, and meet their competency tests.

In a course introduced and coordinated by Admirals Oberhaus, Benjamin, and Male, shipmates learned about tidal currents for the future. As Admiral Benjamin says, "It is something we may not be aware of, but we all need to know about."

3. Admiral Minott discussing the literature assignment of the day.
4. Breaking up into little groups can be an effective way to get things done.
5. Admiral Coody watches her class.
6. This class often breaks up into large groups.
7. The class, one by one, is telling who they believe is the shyest, nicest, boldest, etc.
8. Kim Kordalski and Evie Morgan take criticism with a smile.

Life's Tugboats

Unravelling emotions and talking about themselves was an important cruise feature, steered by Admiral Kim Coody. A casual, relaxed atmosphere and a wide range of topic discussions set the guidelines that often brought up words such as "warm fuzzies" and "cold pricklies". "We learn to give and take criticism," says Dana Elmer, "as well as talk about our feelings."

In second semester's sailing adventure, the mates explored their feelings with other classes. They felt it important to spread an understanding of other ethnic groups. They found that a little kindness brings feelings of satisfaction.

Talent On The High Seas

Large ships, small ferries, and students a like depend on visual contact to communicate. Instead of large colorful flags, the U.S.S. Marauder teaches the ancient art form of expression through its varying art classes.

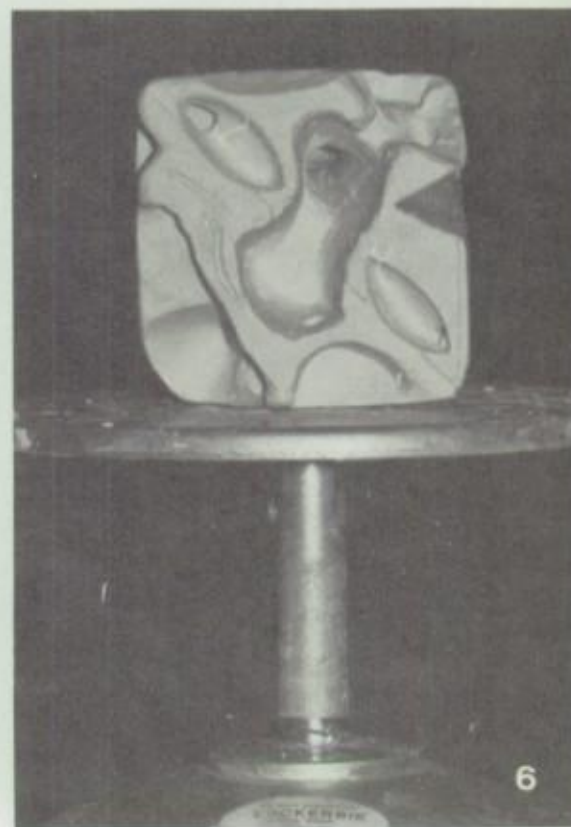

Ceramics, painting, and drawing, crafts, graphic arts, woodworking, and metal shop all reveal a visual aspect on board, much like the brightly colored flags tell the state of a ship.

Talent, a natural resource, has been tapped, and the periodic library displays proved true the high level of activity that went on in those chambers.

Good luck in the nice.

On Deck Fitness

This year's Cruise through the athletics department combined many of the same ports of physical education with moorings introduced this year. Some of the new ports of call for the fleet included slimnastics (exercising to music) and bicycling (4th quarter) and was supervised by Captain Gary Blevins. Captain Debra Holm expanded dance class sessions in order to make room for the overload of interested passengers. Captain Brad Griffith ran the weight room for all the sailors interested in "pumping iron."

Admiral Tim Cunningham and Admiral Lynn Zucker navigated through these many ports of call and made sure all harbors were cleared smoothly.

1. Mike Stewart does his "Hulk" impersonation, while pumping iron.
2. Sailors practice their dance routine on deck.
3. Denny King works on toning his muscles.
4. A passenger perfects her timing.

Buried Treasure

Many of the USS Mirada's sailors became a part of the working world, each for different reasons. Many of the sailors needed money to keep their cars going, to pay for repairs or insurance. Others are building a booty (bank account) for college or a dream vacation. Of course, some sailors contributed funds in their home port but many spent, spent, spent on clothes, albums and concert tickets.

While at work MIRADA sailors wore uniforms, swabbed decks, stacked burgers, stocked shoes, fed baby animals and typed letters.

Most important, experiences in the world of work was gained and many sailors discovered a career they wanted for the future.

1. McDonald's is a galley where Mira Mesa High sailors frequently go to apply for jobs.

2. Jeff Kolk tries not to burn another burger.

3. Lori Stewart hurriedly takes orders from hungry passengers.

4. Margaret Lenoir patiently waits on a fresh order of fries.

STILLS

Sailing Towards Victory

At Mira Mesa, mention the word victorious and football may fall short in actual wins, but when it comes to enthusiasm, persistence and dedication, the Varsity team proved they were true winners. Each moment of play the team worked intensively, striving to put another six points on the Marauder side of the score-board. They never lost hope, they never gave up, and they never once quit.

The team practiced long and hard during the summer and the entire season. They were fortunate to have had many of their talented players return for the 81-82 season. Eddy Bravo, defensive corner, said at the start of the season, "We are defensively experienced and we have a very versatile offense which should keep opponents off-balance. We seem to have more depth in more positions than in previous years." As Mathis Huff, quarterback, agreed, "Everything was there - we just had to put it together."

Reeling In The Line

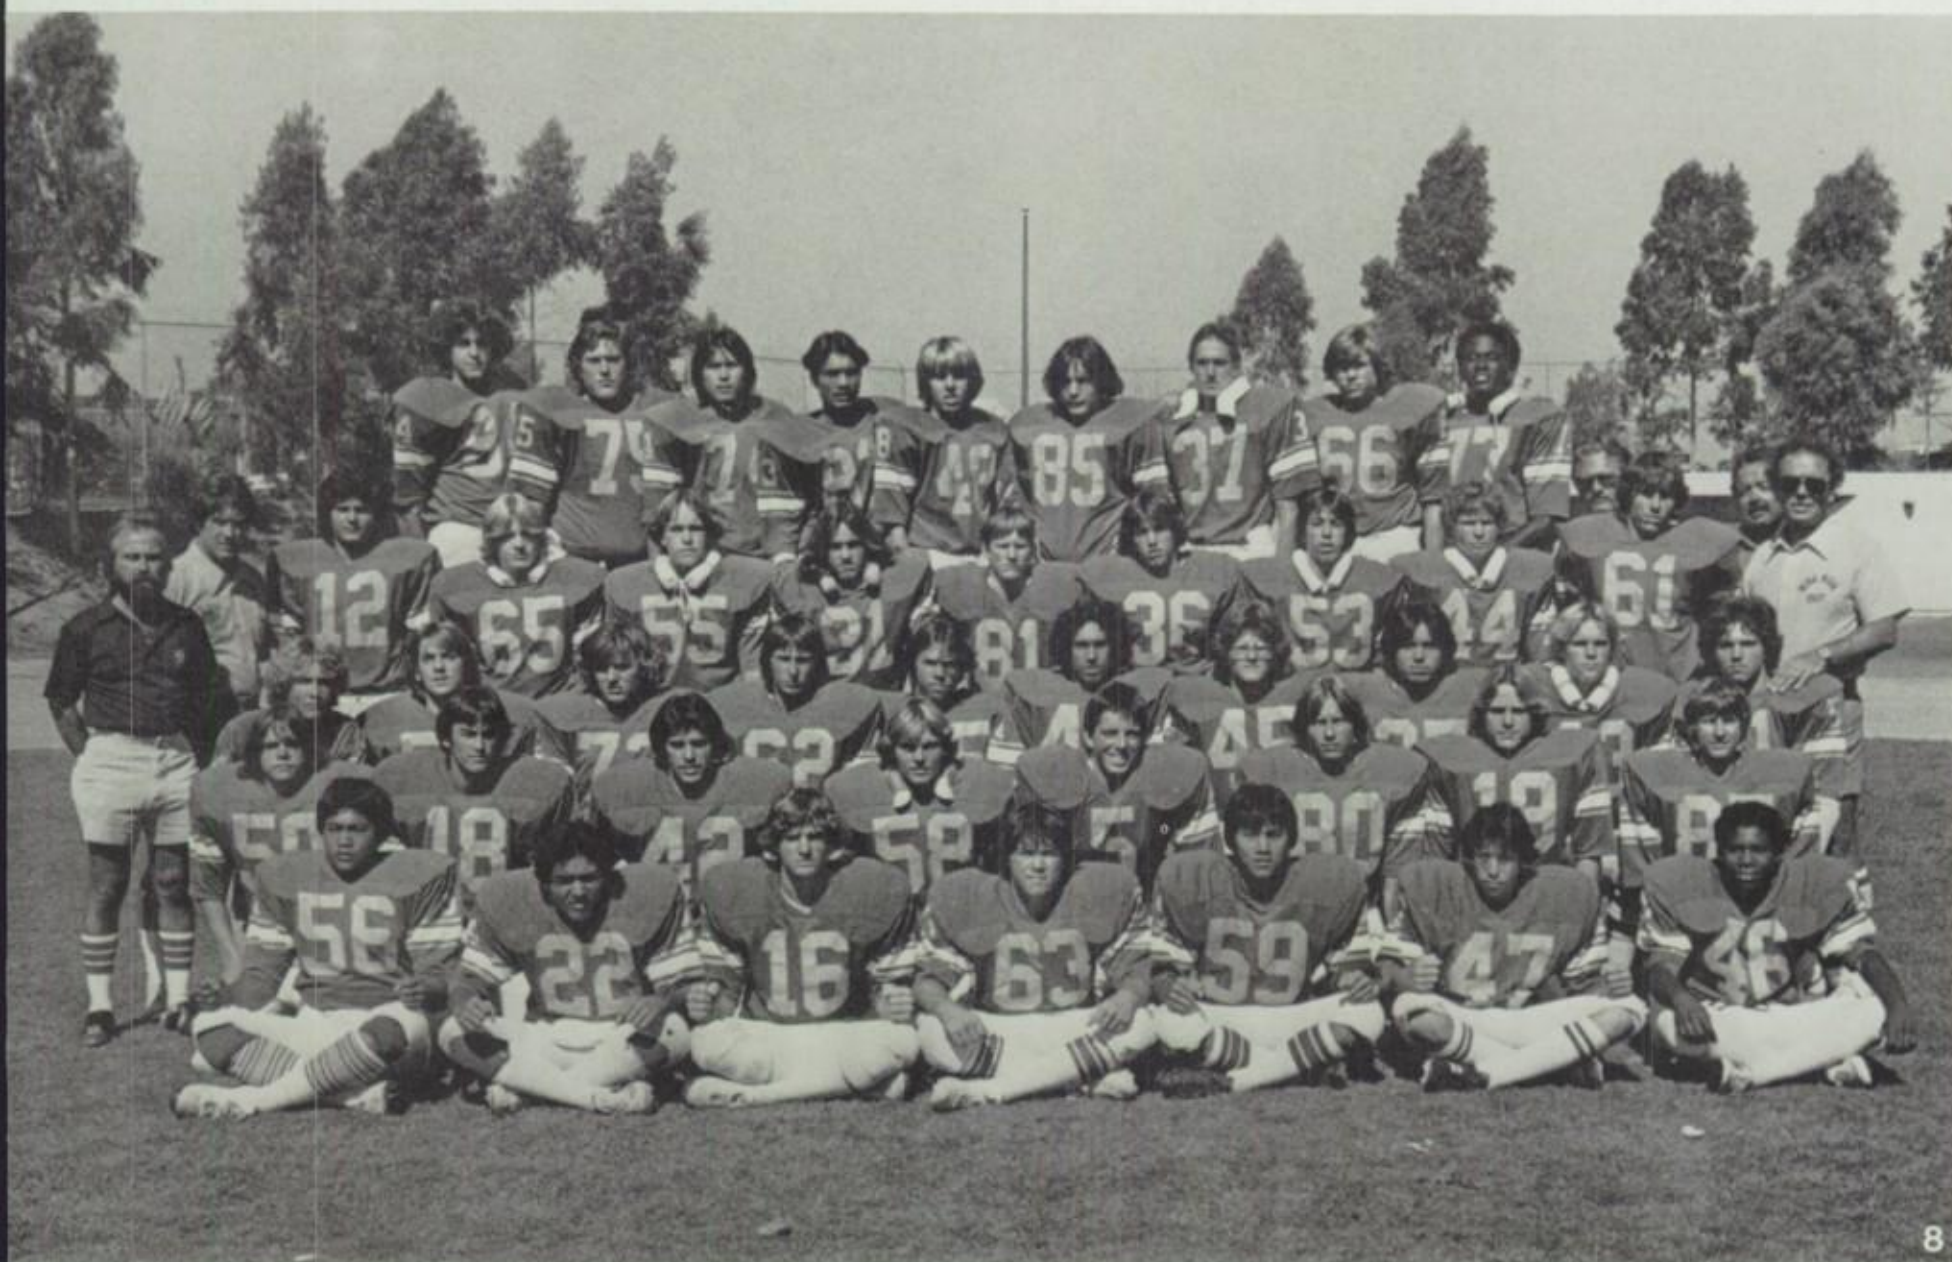

Admirals and Vice Admirals
Dave Mills, Gil Acosta, Bob Payne, and Mark Bradley, along with 45 very outgoing and energetic sailors, made up the Junior Varsity Department of Defense and Offense. Training for each recruit would begin at 1330 and last until 1700, Monday through Wednesday. This would prepare them with the knowledge of survival needed to compete in the many upcoming battles this spirited crew would face.

Kick-off time signaled to all that the Marauders were ready to tackle and conquer any obstacles. With blue and gold uniforms worn proudly, their mighty effort enabled everyone to witness talents of passing, blocking, tackling, and scoring. Crossing of the scrimmage line led them into enemy territory to offensive war at times, and defensive at others.

1. J.V. coaches from both schools shake and remark about the game.
2. Shawn Brown gains yardage as he tries for a first down.

Smashing The Waves

With big waves crashing upon their little boat, the Badminton team were competent enough to stay afloat. Even though most of the crew consisted of the younger seamates, there was an abundance of outstanding players. Most of the top players were juniors and seniors and with their encouragement, the younger mates were able to learn the ropes. It is a fast action game which demands total concentration, endurance, and quick maneuverability. To some of the well-wishers, the boat ride may be boring if one overlooks the strategies and tactics. With skills of power and finesse, it's beautiful sailing.

A New Voyage

The whistle blows and the game begins. Players begin to appreciate the long hours of practice. The determination on faces and the enthusiasm that fills the air is overwhelming. The new Varsity team is on the way to a victory.

Starting over was the theme for the Varsity squad which consisted of only two returning players. For such a young team they did remarkably well; early in the season Ronnie Olsen, the team's coach had said, "I'm very optimistic about the team. They're progressing rapidly and all the girls are looking great!"

Full Speed Ahead

"Cross Country is a very competitive sport," said Varsity Team Captain, Robert Tacloban. This was a true statement as the team competed among themselves, running against each other to see who had the best times to determine the "Runner of the Week". The team's terrific stamina lead the team to a spectacular third place victory at the Las Vegas Invitational held Sept. 19, 1981. Cheering each other on built up confidence, the confidence which led them to a great season.

5. David Nowakowski expresses his feelings at the end of the race, on his cool down lap.

"Running is a great experience", stated Sean Venezuela. This statement was on the mind of everyone on Cross Country.

Making new friends, chumming around with old ones, and just plain having fun was frequent. But along with the play came hard work and plenty of effort and comradeship. Not only to be achieved by one person, but by everyone as a team. The combination proved to be most worthy and valuable, leading them to a whopping first place in the Las Vegas Invitational held Sept. 19, 1981.

Bumping The Boat

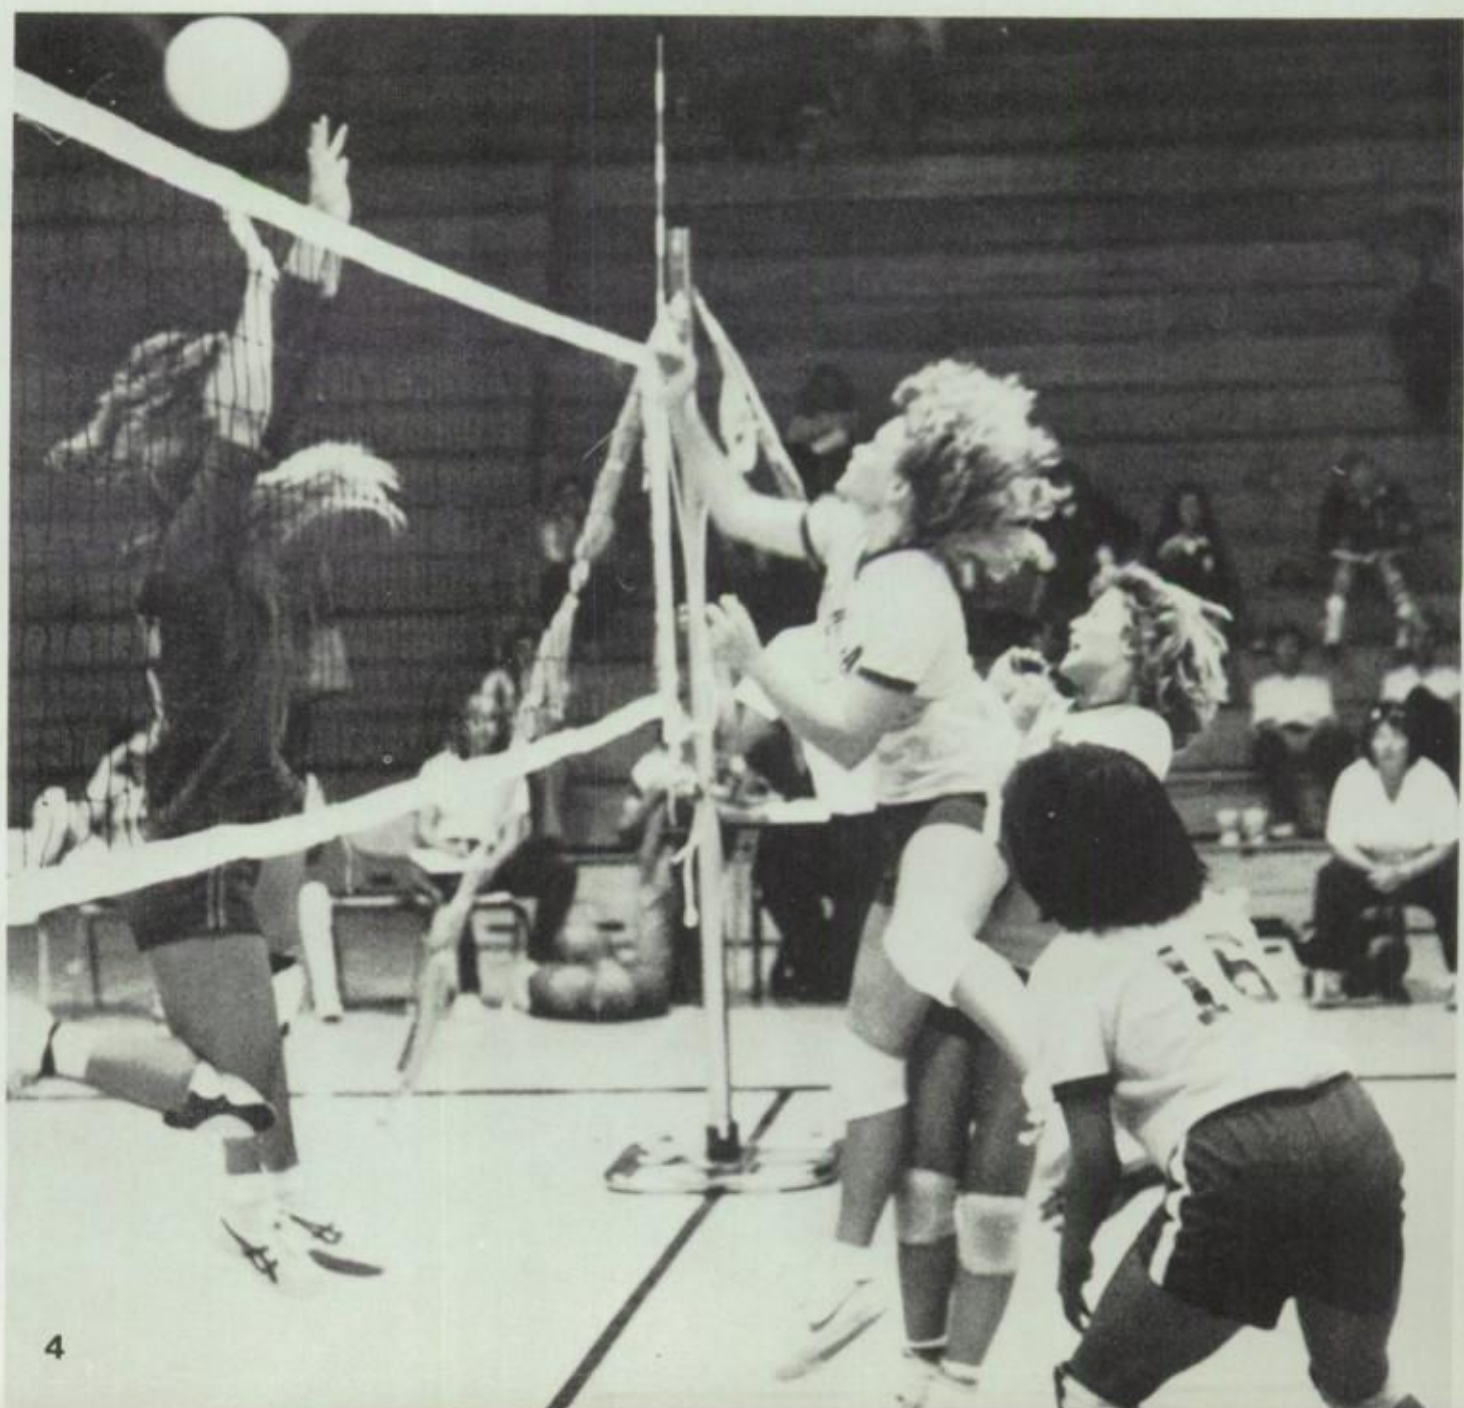

Sailing into the sea was a new experience for most of the Junior Varsity Volleyball crew. With only a few experienced teammates and the navigation of their Admiral Linda Mohr, it was smooth sailing except for a few unexpected waves, here and there. While sailing against other boats, Captains Kim Steverson and Cindy Meier made sure the rest of the crew did their jobs well.

Clear Sailing

"Running is the most exhilarating thing in the world to do," said Teri Moore. That statement was on the lips of everyone of the more than thirty girls on the girls' cross country team. Running, running and more running kept these women seamates in great condition. Sprints on one day, freeboards on another.

Terrific stamina led the young women seamates to many victories, one of which was the Las Vegas Invitational held September 19. The desert heat was a scorching 109 degrees, but the Mira Mesa runners put forth all their speed and endurance which led them to a first place victory. "The attitude among us is spectacular!" exclaimed Gloria Bates, freshman runner. Once again the Mira Mesa Girls' Cross Country team has had another winning season.

Swinging On A Wave

Heading towards unpredictable waters with a boat full of tennis players, anything can happen. If a big wave nearly wipes them out, these girls will be more determined when the next one breaks. The team members constantly strive in perfecting technique with intra team challenges every Friday. This helps Admiral Christy McMahon determine the places in which each member will be for the next wave.

With tennis being an individual sport, the sense of "togetherness" is hard to achieve. This is not the case for this crew. Whenever someone made a mistake, a teammate cheered her up by blowing a kiss and saying, "Hey, babe!" With this closeness creating a winning attitude, these girls had a lot of team spirit and many good times. And one could always spot a member in a sea of students by their team greeting of "Hey, hey, hey!!"

Wavemakers Attack The Net

"It's been full of fun and enthusiasm!", recalled Noel Hall, navigator of the 26-man Water Polo crew. The more experienced and better seamen made up the Varsity team of twelve original, while the remaining fourteen formed the Junior Varsity team that consisted mostly of newly recruited sailors.

Although they were individualists at first, alone and on the sea, they soon called each other buddies. They worked together as a team before the long voyage had half begun.

Quick reflexes, endurance, mental and physical strength, determination, and positive thinking were a necessity for this brave and courageous crew. They tackled many rough waters, distant ports, different climates, and opposing squadrons in order to stay afloat.

The crew was grateful for the use of the on-base Miramar pool. They put in many long and wet hours after school which were dedicated to numerous exhausting work outs. They concentrated on speed and strokes which in the long run, helped to calm the seas during battle and bring forth a very high-spirited and confident crew.

On-board With A Victory

"It's been a great year," remarked Admiral Debra Holm, "we're undefeated!"

Under the command of Admiral Holm and Lieutenant Kathy Hultberg, the 33 member Girls' Swim Squadron broke many school records and will continue to do so until the final docking. The Varsity and Junior Varsity squads met smooth waters as they battled it out at the City Schools Relay Invitational Meet and emerged victorious. Many new recruits that have enlisted already have been among the top ranking swimmers.

Duty for each personnel began at 1300 and lasted until 1500; consisting of maneuvers such as the four basic stroke skills, warm up exercises, turns, starts and finishes, and sprints. That totaled approximately 3,000 to 4,500 yards per day.

Kicking Up A CIF Splash

Kicking off a promising season, the 19-man Varsity Soccer crew gave more than what was expected. Though there were a few obstacles such as injuries, this exciting team was able to pull through even placing second in the Christmas Tournament.

New Varsity coach Chuck McIntire encouraged the crew to give its best performance by awarding both an offensive and defensive player the 'Player of the Match'. As a team, they improved greatly, winning the League Championships and competing in CIF playoffs.

The J.V. Soccer crew coached by Mike Farrand did equally as well. They won most of the games, maintaining a position close to the top ranks of the league. Although the JV crew was quite young, they played with experience. Without a doubt, it has been an excellent season for our Soccer teams.

Surviving The Tempest

Lieutenant Sue Robinson and Admiral Emily Hawkins commanded 27 recruits that made up the Girls' Field Hockey Force for the U.S.S. Mirada voyage of '81-'82. With 13 maties on J.V. and 14 on Varsity, the Force set sail to various league ports to be engulfed in battle.

When not engaged in battle, the Field Hockey Force energetically drilled on the upper-field everyday from 1300 until 1500 with stick in hand. After stickwork and strategy skills, they ran and ran. The type of skills necessary for this type of sport were good hand and eye coordination, quick feet, good ball control, and the ability to set up strategy and follow through with orders.

Everyone worked as a team and with each person's skills combined, crew members produced a powerful Force which guaranteed maximum output everytime.

Swinging Through The Surf

The 13 crew members of the Varsity Softball Team enjoyed an exciting cruise. Team spirit sailed high throughout the season and the girls were good friends both on and off the field. A seven inning game played twice a week kept the team's sails billowing.

The team was not all business because part of the learning was having fun while trying to do your best. The weekly awards to individual players for game performance added to cruise tempo. Awards included donkey award for the clutzeest play; vivacious vacuum award for the outstanding defensive play; and the roadrunner award for the farthest distance on a pop fly.

The J.V. crew consisted of 14 members and was coached by Linda Moore. It was her first try to coach a softball team and her enthusiasm showed when she said, "It's fun and the extra hours are really worth it!"

Bouncing Over The Waves

The 10 week cruise for the 12 man crew sailed faster than anticipated. Although the overall season wasn't a winning one, these sailors continued looking ahead towards new horizons to tackle. The crew consisted of four returning Varsity players, seven promoted from J.V. and only one player new to the ship. Daily practices and games twice a week kept this crew constantly on the alert. In hopes of gaining more experience, the team played various tournaments during Christmas vacation. They finished in 2nd place!

Under the direction of Coach Tim Cunningham, the team worked well together. Team spirit also seemed to sail higher than usual. The crew had fun cruising to away games either riding in buses or forming car pools. According to crew member Mathis Huff, "The team has a lot more unity and talent than last year." The sailors of Mira Mesa High certainly had an enjoyable time watching this exciting team.

J. V. Shoots The Waves

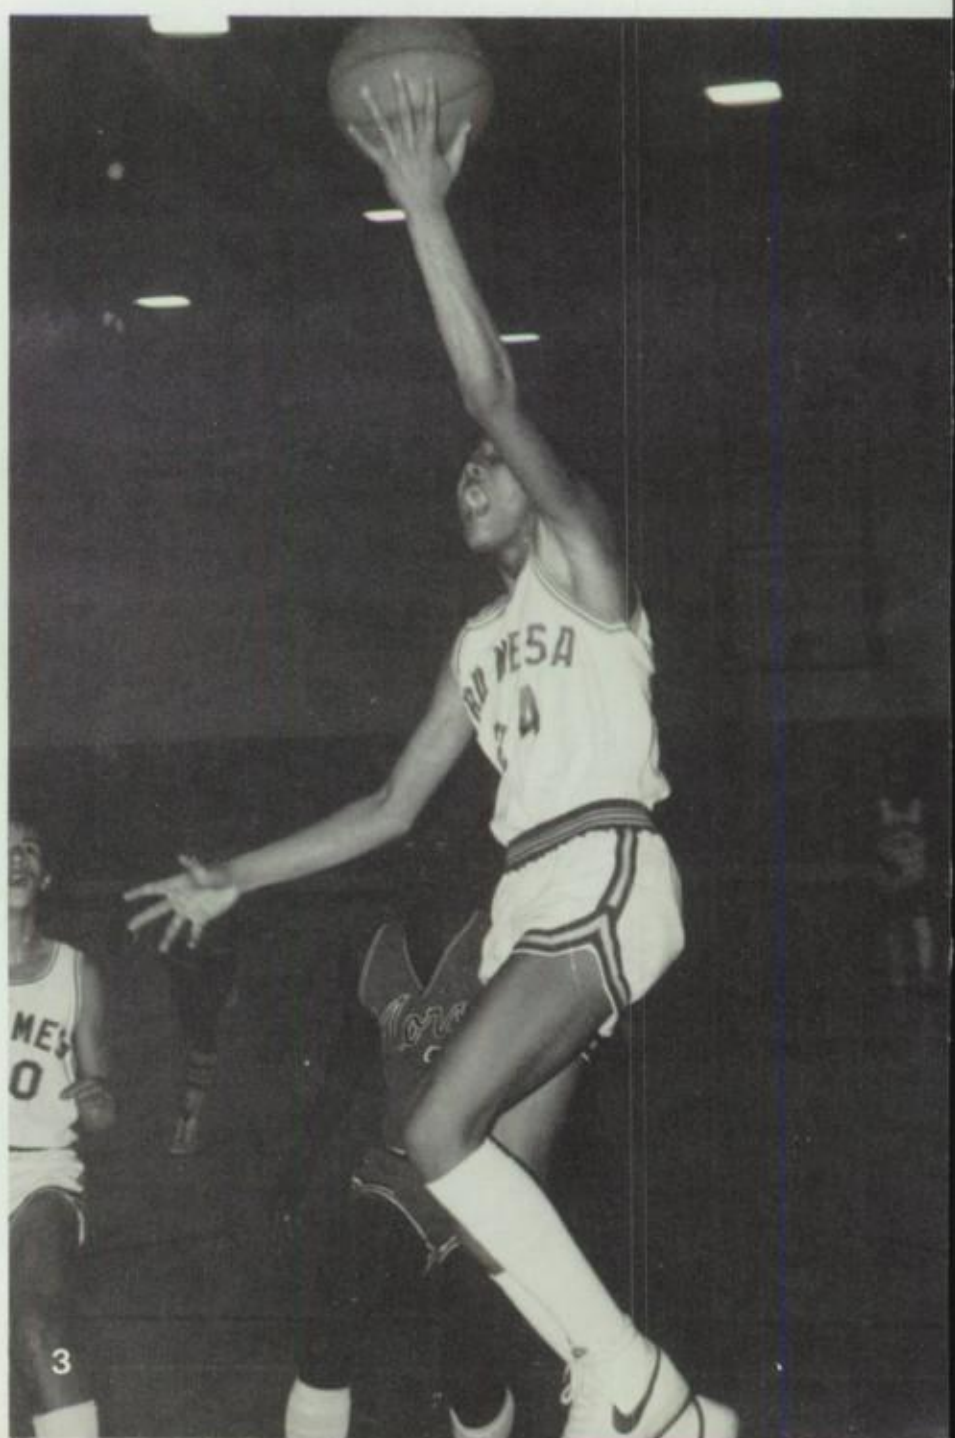

Many seas parted throughout the Mirada Voyage '81-'82 for the Junior Varsity Basketball Crew as they set sail early in the fall to battle it out at various league ports both near and far.

Under the command of Admiral Blevins, this 13 membered, high-spirited and energetic crew put all efforts forward during battle to bring forth the winning Marauder spirit.

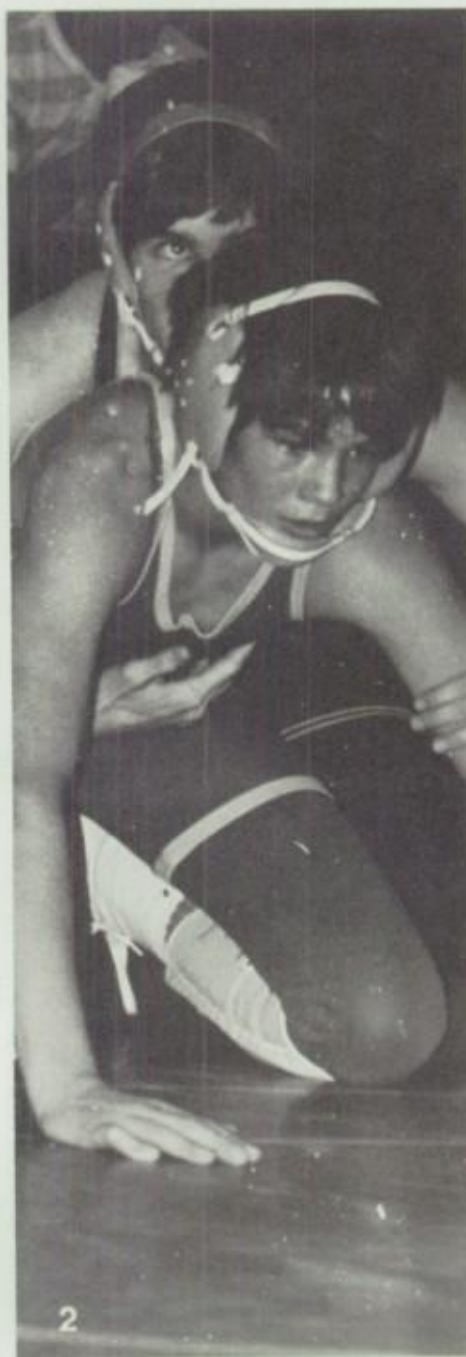

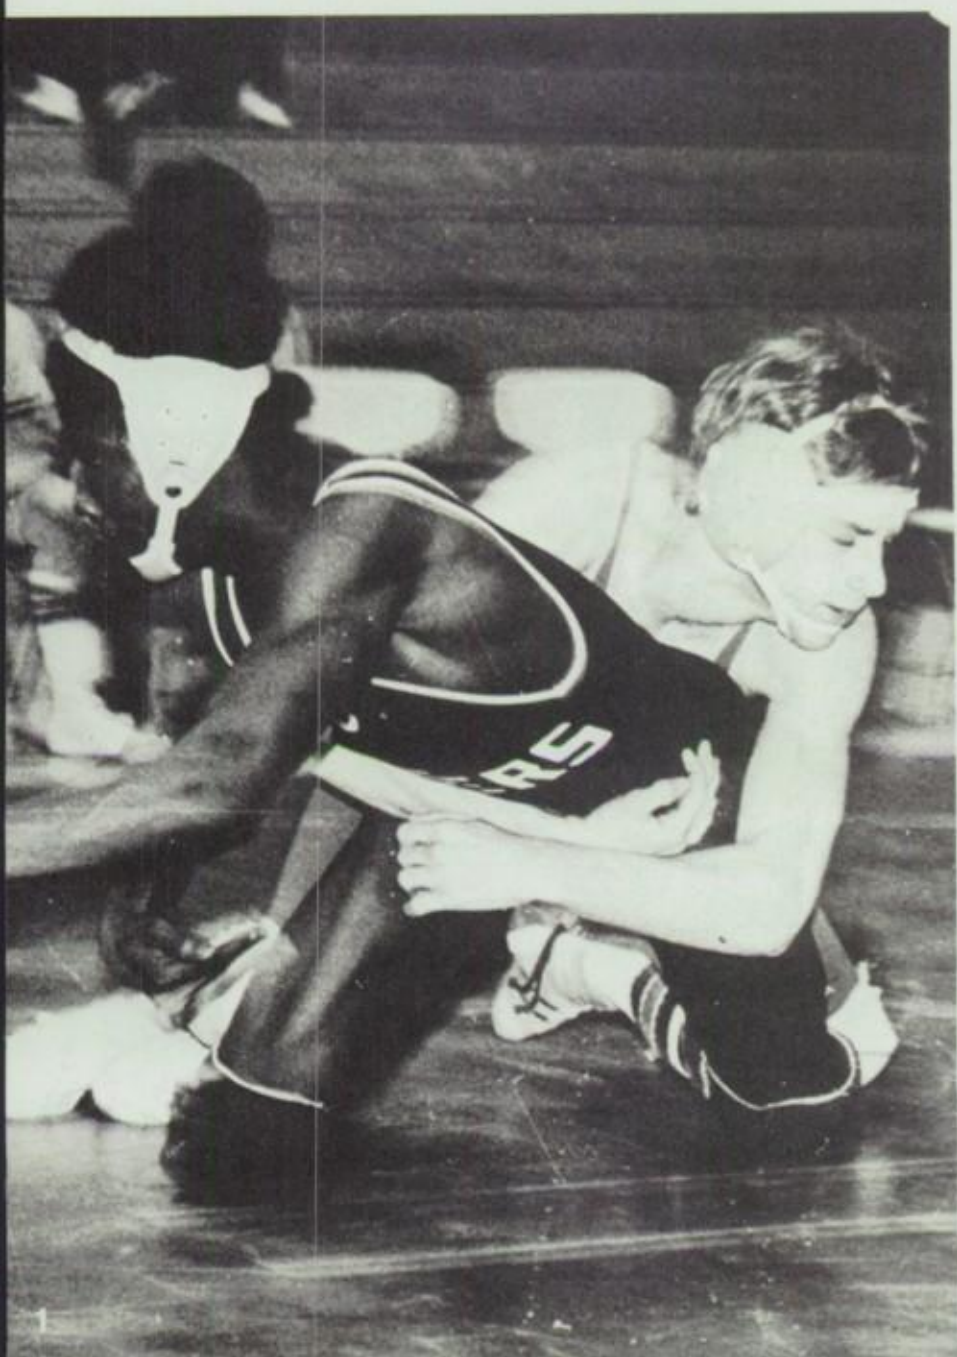

With a record of 12 wins and only 7 losses, the J.V. Basketball Crew was really sailing on smooth waters.

They met everyday after school in the gym and practiced from 1300 until 1500. They worked on shooting, passing, dribbling, and also defensive work.

1. The J. V. Basketball Team consisted of, left to right: Coach Blevins, Suman Sinha, Bobby Hastey, John Mleckzo, Vince Martinez, Robert Coffin, Marcelino Ergino, Bill Rice, Walter Moore, Peter Wrieden, Burr Calapp, and John Vroom. Sitting: Jeff Johnson and Hermie Banaga.
2. Robert Coffin leaps up, and thrusts ball into basket.
3. John Vroom makes a successful lay-up.

Muscling In

With most of the crew learning the ropes for the first time, the J.V. Wrestlers fared well. Although short-handed, the crew finished fourth out of 16 teams competing in the J.V. All-City Tournament.

These grapplers rigorously worked out under the navigation of Mike Barnes and Noel Hall, with Ed Brown mostly in charge with this crew. Though the wrestlers did not have a very successful season, they did have a lot of fun and learned a lot. James Danscuk enthusiastically added, "We're looking forward to a better one next year by using the skills and experiences gained this year."

2. Charles Leathlean concentrates on his first move before the referee signals for the bout to begin.

3. Colin Stowell gets his opponent in a successful cradle at the home match against Morse.

Rough n' Ready

Sailing into an excellent season, the Varsity Wrestling crew achieved its goal of becoming Eastern League champions, qualifying five members—Mike Cruz, Curtis Leahy, Robert Tacloban, Mark Edrington, and Jim Kramer to the CIF tournament at El Camino High. Along the way, the grapplers put in many hours in demanding workouts and practicing proper mat techniques.

The wrestlers had to condition their bodies to a top physical shape. Just trying to maintain the same wrestling weight demanded quite a lot, physically as well as mentally. Even if one was a pound off, it would mean a loss by a forfeit, unless the wrestler can make his weight. Under the coaching of Mike Barnes and Noel Hall, the well-conditioned crew was ready to battle confidently against any foe.

Aiming For The Crow's Nest

Sailing into this season has been a trying period. With only three members returning -- Gina Ylagan, Debbie Duckworth and Tia Francis, it was up to them to hold the line and to teach the rest of the crew the ropes.

Besides having the potential for many promising sailing adventures ahead, this crew of girls had a lot of fun while playing. Being a "secret sister" helped to bring these girls confidence, and most of all, promoted positive winning spirit.

1. Kim Steverson shoots the ball for a basket as an opponent schooner blocks her view.

2. Shooting drills during practice is well worth the attempt, as Tia Francis tries for a basket.

3. Hours of practice increased Susie Doan's advantage point for the basket.

Shooting For The Stars

"It'll be a lot of fun," said girls J.V. coach, Linda Mohr. "I think the girls are serious, and want to have a winning team."

Eleven new and one returning members made up the crew. Individual skills and team harmony became goal focal points. Most of the girls played previous sports such as volleyball and softball, also coached by Linda Mohr this year. The solid foundation built in this manner in years past has led to the following of athletes to varsity teams.

1. Practice makes perfect!

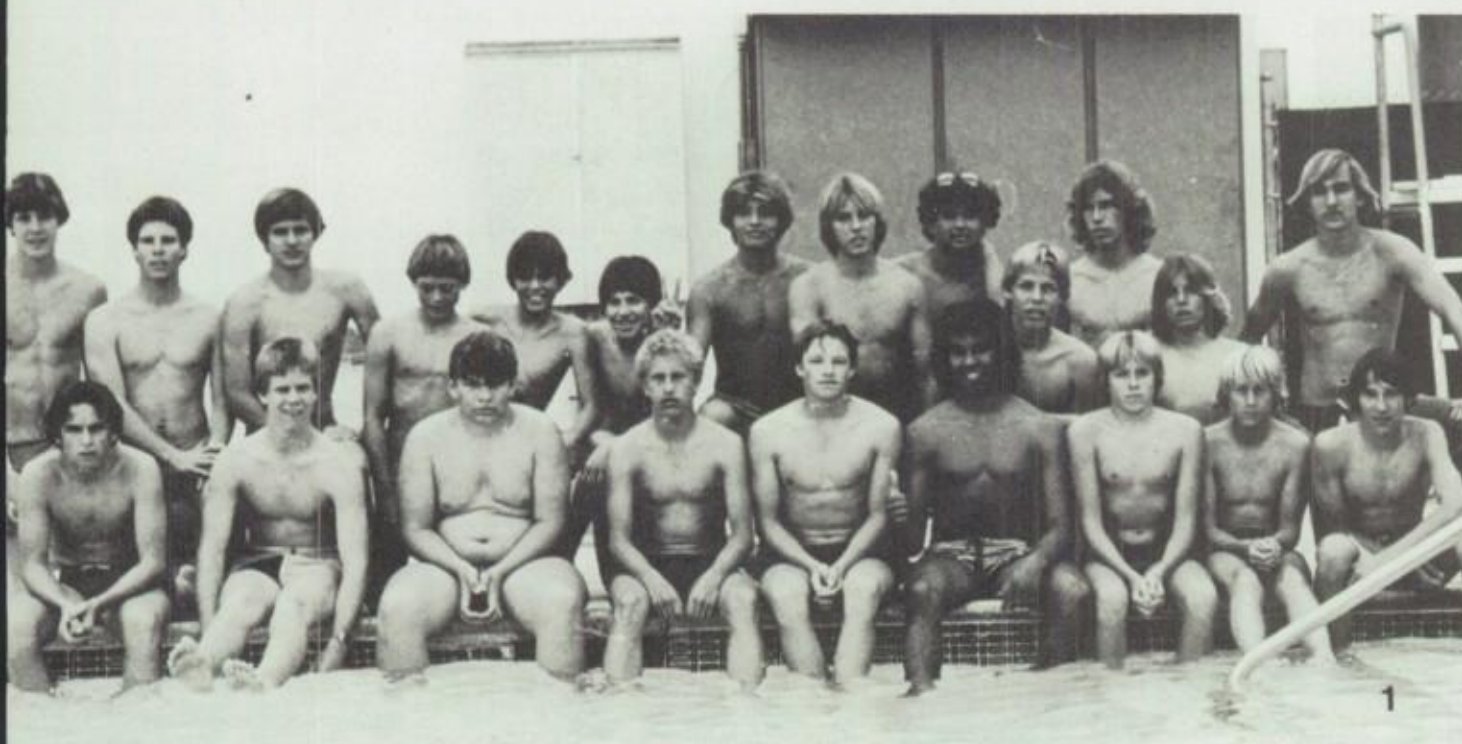

2. Jane Stauffer shows her skill in shooting the hoop.

3. Kathy Hiegel concentrates on making a basket.

4. Top Row: S. Martin, J. Hurley, K. Hiegel, J. Stauffer, T. Franklin, D. Goodlett, and L. Mohr, Coach. Bottom Row: T. Salas, D. Morris, D. Morales, B. Yap, and L. Johnson.

Taking A Fresh Water Dip

Warmups, drills, and more laps! These were familiar words to the swimmers. Finally, BANG! And they're off! Steered by Captain Lisa Carter, the matches began at the end of March, and led into an exciting season of ecstatic wins, and sinking defeats.

Without team support, there would have been no pushing to the limits. Without serious dedication, there would have been no driving on in the freezing cold waters of the early days of spring; turning blue, pruny and getting earaches.

1. Members are: M. Archibeque, B. Barden, M. Bell, D. Burlison, S. Cannon, D. Corbin, R. Elliot, B. Haite, E. Harte, J. Huntsinger, B. Jones, K. Lacey, B. Maier, M. Malopy, B. Mercer, R. Padilla, S. Paules, A. Rogers, C. Smith, D. Swaggerty, R. Thompson, J. Welsh, and K. Wheeler.

2. Cameron Smith practices his backstroke.

3. Mike Archibeque looks ahead, preparing to win.

4. Butch Barden takes a break from the icy cold water.

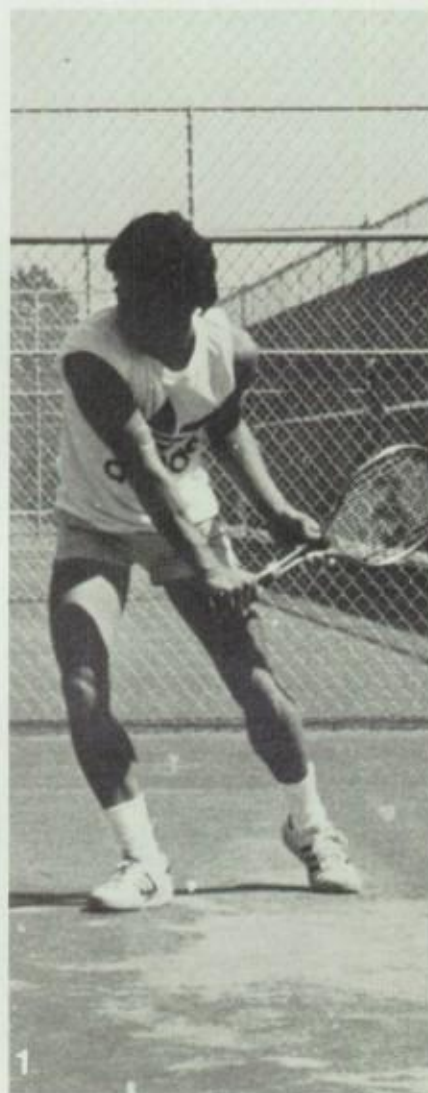

Land Lobbers

Tennis players were some of the land lobbers on board the U.S.S. MIRADA. The boys' tennis team began the cruise with five returning sailors. Admiral Tim Cunningham stated he felt that "the team was much improved over last year." The team's strategy was to build its strength in the doubles competition. (Popeye may have some extra spinach for the guys.) Even though the team began the season with twice as many wins as losses, the coach felt that all five teams in their league were equal. The crew, in their matching jackets, just needed a little extra steam to make it to C.I.F.

2. Matt Seymour serves them up.

JV Tosses And Pitches

As the U.S.S. MIRADA crosses vernal equinox the diamonds are all polished, the lines evenly marked, the bases set in their places and the sound of "play ball" is heard throughout the land.

With only three returning players, the J.V. baseball team headed into deep water testing their sea legs. The new sailors learned that enthusiasm and hard work can compensate for any lack of experience. Because of turbulent seas and much rain, the season was confined to only three voyages. The crew proudly anchored with a 3-0 record. A crack of the bat begins the season. The semaphore signals follow as the coaches pass the orders to the players to slide, steal or sacrifice.

The season ends as the sun sets over the horizon. The crew then retired to their cabins to anxiously await yet another mission on the high seas.

2. Brian Hopkins perfects his skill catching a ball during practice.

3. In spite of the rain, practice goes on.

Baseball Sails For

The word for this year's Varsity Baseball team was "Believe." The Baseball crew was loaded with talent. The team had ten returning shipmates, losing only one starter to graduation. The team was skippered by veteran Coach Larry Elliott.

The pitching staff composed of Mark Simmons, Richard Dahlberg, Chris Wrieden, Bill Arbuckle, Mathis Huff, and Jimmy Longnecker was the strongest of the county. The Marauder defense was watertight, yielding few "leaks." The famed "Aluminum Brigade" led the Marauder offense to many victories, scoring run after run.

The team's ability kept crew members' heads above the water in the tough Eastern League. The Marauders were the team to beat for the first time in the school's history and they handled the challenge with success.

7. Jim Longnecker pitches another famous fast ball.
8. He's Out!

Tumbling Over The Stern

With the strongest crew Mira Mesa has ever had, it's full steam ahead for the gymnastics team. Under the navigation of Coaches Debra Holm and Mike Calabro, it is stressed that it is very important to pay attention - to the coach, your body, and others around you; and to be positive and confident.

Each member must have flexibility and strength because both are equally important in building a strong gymnastic body. In addition to their practices, these girls lift weights and run twice a week. Just having the flexibility and strength isn't all, each girl must have an intuition to dance because dance is a large part of gymnastics.

Besides devoting time to the workouts, there's always time for fun, like parties, inner-squad meets, and celebrating each member's birthday. Coach Holm puts in with pride, "I am very pleased with the attitudes of the girls and we have an extremely talented team."

1. Mary Rolfes, Kim Stevens, and Julie-Anne Clifford practice hours afterschool on the floor routine to a point of perfection ready for competition.

2. Afterschool practices increases Mona Melvin's concentration and stamina on her beam routine.

3. Jeanne Bartley compliments herself on a routine well done.

4. Coach Calabro assists a flying Marauder on the vault to prepare her for a gymnastic meet.

5. Kim Stevens is deep in thought as she completes her floor routine.

6. Gymnasts wait patiently to do their vaulting.

Hurdling The Waves

There was a stampede along the shore, waiting for the Girls' Track and Field voyage to begin.

Admiral Terri Gregor commanded both the many newly-recruited members and the returning members from the previous year to make up this year's J.V. and Varsity teams. Every member of this energetic crew put tremendous effort along with hard work into every meet; sometimes suffering from the hot and dry weather that would occasionally accompany their voyages and battles at home and at distant league ports.

Try-outs for the team began early in the spring and for those who survived cuts, they put in many hours after school practicing from 1300 until about 1530 on the lower field. They ran for distance, sprinted, were timed, stretched out, and ran some more. For those who participated in meets other than just running, they specialized in developing their skills in the areas of long jumping, high jumping, shot putting, hurdling, and throwing the discus.

All the work that seemed hard in the beginning, eventually paid-off at the end to make the '82 Track and Field voyage, a successful one.

In Stride With The Waves

The waves of competition were high as the boys' track and field division soared with the wind at exciting invitational and league meets. The division, consisting of 90 members, manned as many events as possible. Hours of practice each day strengthened and built stamina on the field and in the weight room for events such as pole vault, shot put, discus, long and high jump, long distance running and relays. Coach Dennis Lottermoser, Terri Gregor, Chuck McIntire, and Geri Minott selected an enthusiastic division with increasing potential. The division's triumphant season advanced with the supporting knowledge of their guiding coaches. Tense waters were overcome as medals of hard work and accomplishment were awarded to high stern participants. A victorious season was met as the anchor of defeat never tugged.

1. As a shot putter, Fred Morgan believes that concentration and a lot of practice can help achieve distance in the shot put.
2. After completing his sprint, Mike McGraw soars windward as he passes the finish line.
3. Mike Morris developed his flexibility through hours of practice while rigging his weight over the pole.

Sailing Fore 18

The Golf Team teed-off once again for a season full of swings and holes-in-one. They played a nine hole game twice a week. With three returning players, the 10 man crew struggled hard to keep its concentration strong.

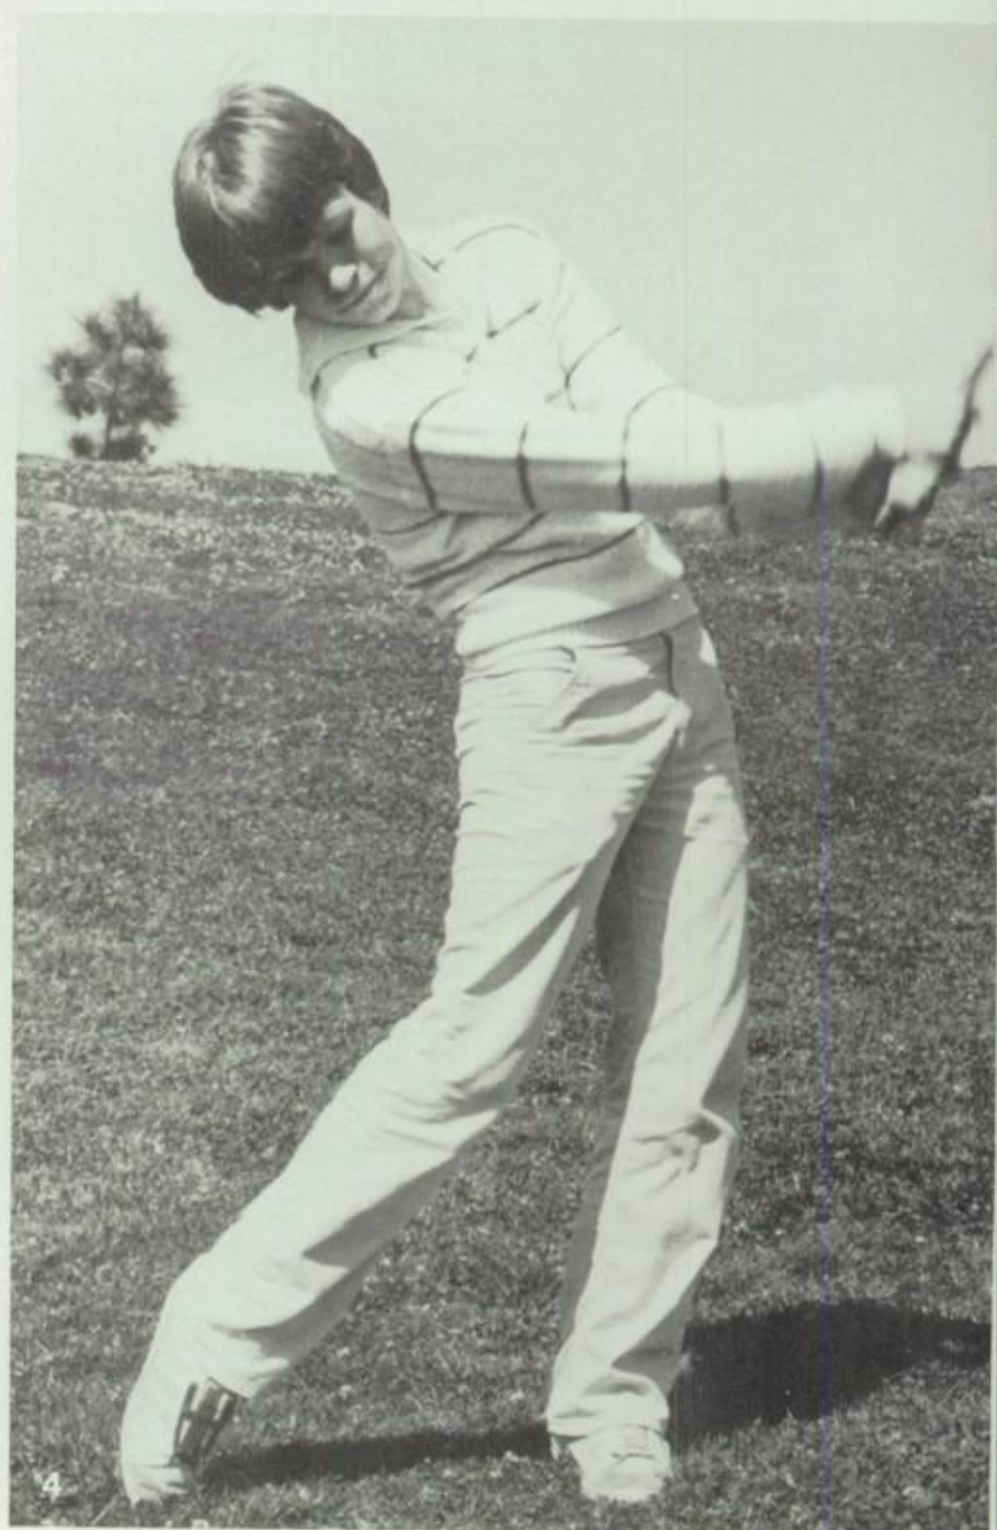

A regulation squad consists of no more than 12 sailors and use six mates for each match. A match can last anywhere from 2 1/2 - 4 hours depending on course conditions. The squad, along with coach Admiral Richard Smith, met at the Torrey Pines Golf Course on Tuesdays and Fridays for the matches. According to Bill Castaneda, a two year team member, "I play because it's really relaxing and a lot of fun!"

Adjoining Forces

The American Field Service Crew was a new chapter to the Marauder Fleet. The primary objective was to bring American crews and foreign crews together in a smooth water atmosphere. Derek Beahm, Captain, stated that "in addition to aiding exchange students in their adjustment to America, AFS also assists American high school students who want to participate in an education abroad program." The exchange students involved in the American Field Service ranged from the crews of Japanese background to Canadian background.

The Crew met every Wednesday after school in Admiral Elaine Bennett's cabin. They discussed and followed through on school involvement such as submitting a float in the Homecoming parade.

Deep Sea Feelings

In Expressions, writing club mates shared their abilities by writing poems, essays, stories and even sketching pictures. The twenty seamates plan to get some of their poems and essays printed in the San Diego City Schools' magazine of art, The Quest and in the Marquee as well.

With the help of Admiral Pat Duncan, they became experienced and successful writers.

Meeting during the Friday mess hour, mates shared their latest writing or drawing to each other. With working together they had helped each other express feelings and refine their skills.

The FHA seamates learned about the areas of Consumers and Family Studies, that were included in the Competitive Recognition Events at the Sub-Regional, Regional, and State Meetings. With the experience and the money raised from their fundraising activities, selected seamates were able to attend the California Leadership Training Conference which was held on April 24-27, in Anaheim.

Stars Lead The Ship

The Sword and Scroll of 1981-82 was an active group of more than forty, many of whom hope for a career on stage. At the club's helm were Vernon Ballesteros, captain; Erin Gray, first mate; Susan Reaves, cruise director; and Marina Weyer, purser. Prosperous carwashes set the actors afloat, to finance their productions. During the summer, the group attended "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at the Old Town Opera House.

"Dracula", as originally written by Bram Stoker, launched the season after just three weeks of preparation. That fine acting prepared Marauders for a scary Halloween that had Sword and Scroll members working two nights at the Balboa Park Haunted House. One member, Elise Bergernon, summarized members feelings when she said, "I feel sad when its over, but its good to know there's always next time."

Exploring New Lands

Bag checks, boarding, and jet lag were the first experiences shared by the lucky crew that shoved off into the unknown last July. An experienced traveler, Admiral Harriet Marriner, in cooperation with the American Institute for Foreign Study, led the five novice travelers through Spain, France, Switzerland and England. In England, they were joined by three more mates from other United States cities, and viewed the Royal Wedding.

Highly developed transportation throughout Europe made it easy for the group, from flagging down taxis in Rome, to discovering the "tube" or subway which was most accessible. But, on foot, things could slow down. While touring in Rome, first one traveler turned up lost in the Sistine Chapel, and another became temporarily lost in the interesting Pantheon, famed for its unfinished domed ceiling, which still boasts a large hole.

In France, Marauders dined at the exclusive Le Petit Cafe, savouring onion soup and white wine. Ahh, that French cuisine! Susan Gerrior wrapped it all up stating simply, "It was so much fun, that I decided to go back to Spain and Portugal the summer of '82."

Seeking Unspoken Treasure

Discussing, learning, and preparing were key words to the Marauder Speech Team of 1981-82. Knocking knees, shaky hands, and unclearable throats were common actions, especially as the competition intensified. When they cast off with the year long controversial topic of setting minimum standards for junior and senior high schools, stomachs pitched and lolled at the thought of upcoming events. Admiral Marriner (otherwise known as Mrs. Harriet Marriner) had at last set sail the school's first serious debate club in several years. Opening with a larger crew than expected, the weekly meetings regularly drew some fifteen speakers.

The season was christened at the end of October, with the first Novice Tournament held at Palomar College.

The members researched individually for long, excruciating hours in order to practice as a group.

The club made a successful beginning, and through their verbal competition, they have achieved not only their own personal goals, but also strengthened many career goals in this outstanding program.

1. First stop, sightseeing in Spain.
2. Wedding procession in England.
3. Typical old Spanish architecture.

Christening With Songs

"Music is my world!", declared many of the more than one hundred Madrigal and Concert Choir vocalists. This motto was true as the Madrigals sang their way from appearance before civic and professional organizations to a Comprehensive Arts musical. Madrigal Captain Denise Taylor, devoted to the more advanced thirty-six Madrigal singers, aided Admiral Norvada Smedley in getting the flaws out of their singing.

"It's easy as pie", explained Mike Casillas in explanation how the Concert Choir made it from an Oktoberfest and San Diego festivals to a December holiday concert in the Mira Mesa High auditorium, in one piece through the rough waters of a high school semester. A pleasure cruise best described the Concert Choir Captains, Susan Renninger and Bob Kerrigan whose duties were made much easier by the great voices of the Concert Choir vocalists.

Division In Command

Our United Races is a closely knit unit which primarily functions on the basis of unity. The division was made up of 25-30 dedicated crew members. The function of OUR Division was to unite ethnic classes by working together in missions such as raising funds by working in concessions at the Halloween Carnival and International Faire, helping to sponsor the Homecoming dance, collect canned foods for an orphanage and plan their annual potluck banquet.

The division met in the 400 Headquarters every Wednesday afternoon at 1400 (2:00 PM). In command was Olga Gonzales, Admiral and Ron Gil, Captain. Refreshments were served at every meeting with cookies and cupcakes baked by a crew member.

Music On The High Seas

Music roared from the more than eighty mates of the Marauder Band. Another twelve mates composed the top brass council.

Participating in the Mira Mesa 4th of July Annual Parade is one of the many events that they marched in. A few weeks before the cruise began, a "Rookie Camp" was held for swabbies and a "Veteran's Camp" was held for returning enlisted mates. Marching Band made its debut on the Oct. 2 home football game. The Pep Band and the Jazz Band played during Friday mess hour.

Cathy Diomampo, Band's Cruise Director, said, "Band can be very frustrating yet very rewarding. Pride runs as deep as an ocean. Within our hearts and souls we're just one big family because we help each other."

The Jazz and Pep Bands met each other afterschool but on separate days. Caesar Dispo, Marching Band's Drum Major, was in charge for the Marching Band in class and on the journey through many parades.

Be A Pepper

Like life preservers, the pep club members willingly supported all the athletes, even in sometimes rough waters. This kind of dedication required determination and responsibility, as well as spirit. Dipping into personal funds for bright blue and gold polo shirts was a small price to pay for the fond memories of night games, caravanning, and victorious home games.

Raising funds was no cruise, however. Many times the members had to promote ticket sales to enable chartering spirit buses to away games. Throughout the voyage, the activities director, along with Admiral Judy Johnston organized events such as the baking of cakes and cookies to surprise the football players with on their first home game, October 23.

This group of "peppers" accomplished that original feat through teamwork; from this evolved an experience that kept school morale bolstered and spirits hopeful. As Lori Potter put it, "You never know, this game might be the one."

Force Cruises

Bike ridin', sailboatin', and apple pie are three favorites of the Marauder Cycling Force. The Cycling Force served as bikeriders of the Marauder Fleet which maintained continuous exercise and physical fitness over the international waters bordering Del Mar and Mission Bay.

Commanding the Cycling Force was Rear Admiral John Orendorf. The Force prepared themselves with assigned missions, such as bike rides to Del Mar, La Jolla, and Mission Bay in preparation for the big cycling event in Tecate and Ensenada, Mexico. The purpose of the Cycling Force was to emphasize energy and exercise through long distance cycling drills, as well as surprise bike inspections from the admiral. The Force met whenever Orendorf commanded, usually every other Thursday after school.

Ward Steering Forth As

The U.S.S. Ethnic Studies Club was built at the Mira Mesa Drydock Shipbuilding Corporation, San Diego, Ca. by the Marauder Shipbuilding Company. On 15 September 1981, the club slid down the ways; and was commissioned on the 19th of October, 1981.

The objectives of the U.S.S. Ethnic Studies were to affiliate students with the history of particular races through special projects and guest speakers such as Mr. Bill Fansler and Mr. Otis Funches. The Ethnic Studies Crew met every other Friday in Admiral Virginia Ward's quarters after school. The club participated in the International Faire by baking international foods and distributed brochures about Ethnic Studies at the March Curriculum Faire.

1. Ethnic Studies seamates, Nancy Meza and Veronica Ruiz study off hand before a test.

2. The Crew reeled the nomination for Vice President to Susan Tagaban before the voyage began.

The new Marauder Mart docked in the 200 port ventured to a new look with the help of an old ASB school promotions treasure map. Marauders saw the rays of Mars bars, Goobers and Raisinettes shine into their portholes after the midday meal. Stocked with jewels of letterman jackets and Marauder sweat shirts, the Task Group behind the counter enjoyed serving the Marauder Fleet.

The Marauder Mart division was divided into two groups, one handling the ship's first mess, the other handling second mess. The Storekeepers maintain supplies for the ship operations which include provisions, ship's stores, Marauder necessities and general nutritional items. The Admirals of the Marauder Mart are Ms. Judy Earle and Ms. Jo Moore, their First Mate during first mess is Anna Bravo and Jose Mendoza for second mess.

Pursers Learn The Ropes

Future Business Leaders of America was a club which provided its mates training in leader ship qualities and skills to give them experience for future careers in the business world.

Marauder mates of FBLA went to Los Angeles and attended the Southern Section Fall Work shops at St. Michael's Girls High School, on Oct. 17. Workshops included: Grooming and etiquette, public speaking, leadership training, competitive events, communications, and motivations.

FBLA helped the young seamates develop skills and to build confidence in both their work and themselves. The seamates had fundraising events to finance on trips to conferences.

The FBLA Admiral Mary Patterson, met with the FBLA seamates every once or twice a month. The selected officers this year were Pamla Saxton-Captain, Lisa Mills-First Mate, April Reynoso-Purser, Joanna Saludaes-Cruise Director, Gladys Jose-Log Keeper, and Rosendo Moreno-Reporter/Parliamentarian.

High Ranking Officials

The California Scholarship Federation Contingent was an important part to the Marauder Scholastic Fleet. The CSF crew included highly academic mates with grades of 3.0 average or better. The "life time" crew members in the CSF Force of four consecutive cruises were relieved at the senior hail and farewell ceremony (graduation) with gold cords and special seals on their diplomas. CSF Force commanded mates to find colleges as prestigious workers. The crew's annual voyage to Disneyland was accomplished on Feb. 19 with commanding officer Admiral Louis Regas in firm charge along with Captain Diane Godfrey.

Another important part of the Marauder Fleet is the School Site Council for the school's improvement program. The Force recruited a squadron of faculty, parents and students to improve and aid the Fleet's education by way of certain missions. One of the Crew's missions was a school wide emphasis on basic skills instruction and learning in reading computation, visual impact, and human relations. The SIP Force met in the Principal's Wardroom monthly with the squadron always ready to maintain a continuous vigil over the Marauder waters.

In The Main Stream

Prep, Punk and Peddle-pushers led the New Wave of this year's fads. Knickers sailed in at the beginning of the school year and following the MIRADA's theme, the sailor look came in with a splash. Calvin Klein certainly had a case of mal-der-mer (sea-sickness) with Black Flag flying, the naughty-cal but nice punkers with their stylized haircuts, all star hightops, and mini-skirts. We got all squared away with the Rubik's Cube. With the Cubies leading the way; a person could just D-I-E die, choosing between the Rubik's Cube and a social life. Another popular item was the Member's Only jackets.

Then came the Preps with their collars turned-up, Alligators snapping, Bermudas cuffed and Topsiders scuffed. Since legwarmers were so HOT it was good that the weather was cool. Spiked pumps, flat ballerinas, Nikes, and penny loafers all raced home to catch the award-winning soap, General Hospital. Most of the students on the USS MIRADA dove right into the New Wave. But all in all, each fad survived, was not all bad.

1. Rome and Evelyn display their "Members Only" jackets.
2. Paul and Danny were in the cut with the Bogus look.
3. The most puzzling cube you'll ever know, the "Rubiks Cube"
4. An increasing fad was knickers worn by both sexes.
5. Nothing comes between me and my "Calvin Kleins."

Dear Doraine,
 You're a great person
 and I'll always remember the good times we had in your gym class. I faith
 I didn't see South Pacific
 I'm sure you were a smash!
 year and I'm thankful
 and happy we are friends.
 Love forever,
 Kathleen Wilson

Captain's Log

The voyage of the U.S.S. Mirada has been so interesting that we tended to forget the real world all around us.

President Ronald Reagan and Pope John Paul II were targets of assassination. Anwar Sadat was killed and General Dozier was kidnapped and rescued.

The case of Governor Jerry Brown -vs- the California Med-fly led the news. Fourteen billion dollars of the agricultural industry along with his own political career depended on this insect's cooperation.

More on the political scene centered around Regan-omics: "I know it's a hell of a challenge, but ask yourself: If not us, who? If not now, when?"

The crisis in Poland touched the hearts of the American people. A candle lit in the White House window became a symbol of support for the freedom of the Polish people.

ERA was still a crucial concern for America's woman. The first woman justice to the Supreme Court, was a victory for the largest minority group.

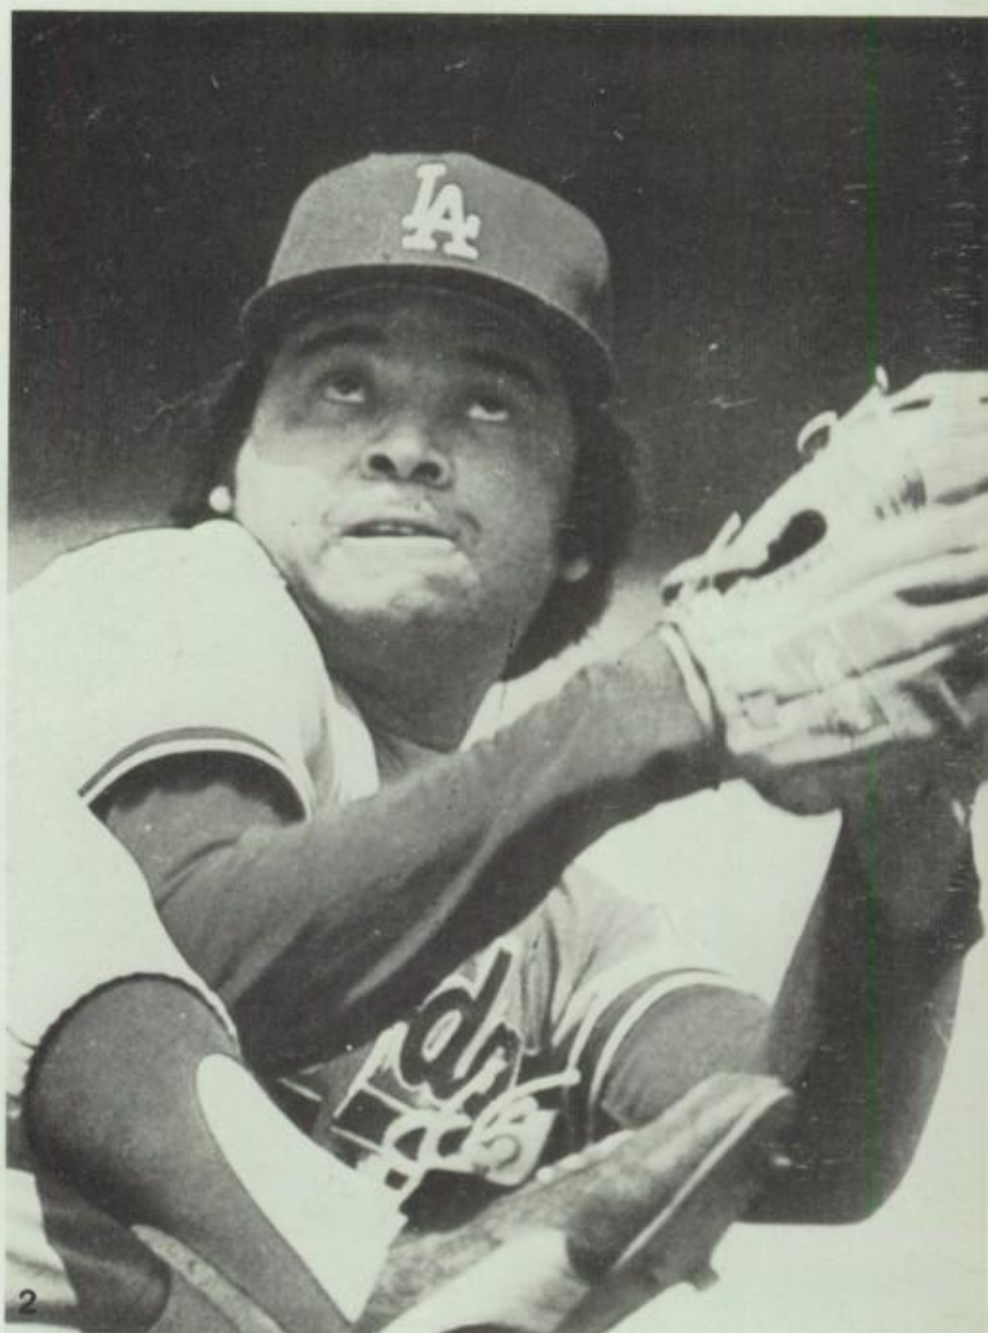

Streaking towards the stars briefly, the space shuttle Columbia marked another milestone in NASA history. This first reusable space craft will be up, up, and away again, again, and again!

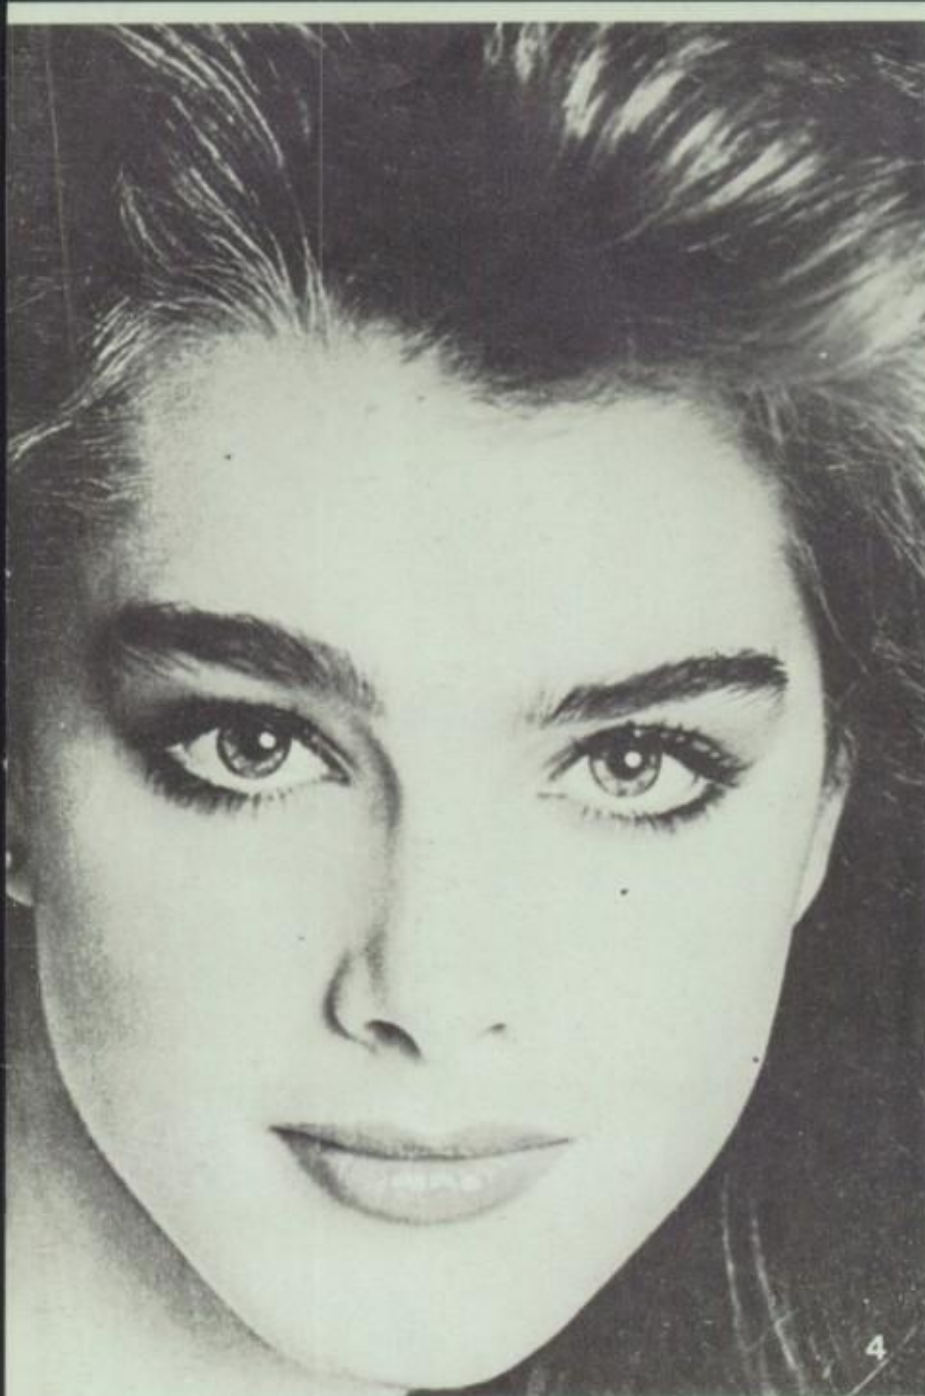

On the sentimental side, the wedding of the year was between Shy Lady Di and Bonnie Prince Charles, but a few die-hards insisted the wedding was Luke and Laura's on the award winning soap, General Hospital.

Under the lights, the Broadway show by Gilbert and Sullivan, "Pirates of Penzance," dazzled audiences anew. The performances of Rex Smith and Linda Ronstadt stole our hearts!

On the screen, most fell into "Endless Love" with Brooke Shields while Harrison Ford thrilled the viewers in "Raiders of the Lost Ark".

For the entertainment, people discovered a very special toy. Erno Rubik describes his cube as "a game, a teaching aid, a sport, and a piece of art."

In the sports scene, San Diego was in the news when our own Marcus Allen received the Heisman Trophy. Fernando Valenzuela of the Dodgers was the rookie wonder. John McEnroe fumed, fussed and profaned his way to #1 through many sets. Charger power reached its peak as the San Diego Chargers sought for the Super Bowl berth. They melted in Miami, froze in Cincinnati and almost made it. "You can't always get what you want." The Vince Lombardi trophy stayed in California as the proud San Francisco 49ers proudly carried it home.

We were all shocked by the sudden deaths of Natalie Wood and John Belushi.

March brought in violent weather all over the country. In San Diego, the flooding once again caused many problems.

In spite of the many problems, our ship never lost its bearings. We sailed through each tempest with flags flying high over the masts. The sailors at Mira Mesa High learned, laughed, cried, and lived through the year '81-'82. The world around us has changed, but we have survived!

4. The glamorous teenage model, Brooke Shields. Photo taken by Time Magazine.

5. Flying toward the stars briefly, the space shuttle Columbia marked another milestone in NASA history. Photo taken by US Magazine.

6. Sandra O'Connor, the first woman Supreme Court Justice. Photo taken by US Magazine.

7. We were all shocked by the death of John Belushi.

As the harbor entrance looms, and times for safe anchor and shore leave arrive, the '81-'82 MIRADA cruise ends. Memories fond and otherwise remain for a lifetime's review. Though some passengers will be disembarking permanently, new ones embark in September, for the future cruises. All will experience the life on the USS MIRADA.

Doraine

I've known you ever since the 8th grade and I liked you then

We sure had some good laughs this year talking about people. Remember tourist day and ~~people~~ you are just like a sister to me and I always wanted a sister.

~~people~~

I will always remember you and your crazy ways, so don't you ever forget me!
